FEATURES OF THE AUSTIN "10 H.P."

THE Austin Ten had a very favourable reception upon its introduction, and has gained consistently in public favour ever since, so that now it is one of the most popular cars on the road.

THE four-cylinder engine, water cooled, with detachable head, is neat and compact. Its output of power is smooth, very flexible and will maintain a high cruising speed. The "pick up" is exceptionally good. The engine is suspended at three points. Rubber mountings are used to absorb vibration.

THE top and third speeds have synchromesh engagement, and second, third and top speed gears are in constant mesh to ensure silent running.

THE new cross-braced chassis frame is rigid and stronger. A feature of the "Ten" is its riding comfort, due to the load being carried within the wheel base, its low centre of gravity and its special springing.

THE coachwork is shapely and modern in line, the doors are wide, the floor low, there is ample head, elbow and foot room, the front seats are adjustable and the upholstery deep and comfortable.

GARDEN SEATS ON THE HIGHWAY.

ACTION BY GOVERNORS OF A HOSPITAL.

Before Judge Shannon, in the Circuit Court yesterday, in the case of the Governors and Guardians of the Hospital for Incurables, Donnybrook, against Miss Julia Nutley, Bushfield Villa, Bushfield terrace, Marlborough road, Donnybrook, the plaintiffs sought an injunction restraining the defendant from obstructing the public highway leading to the entrance gate of the hospital at Bushfield terrace by placing seats or other obstacles on it. Plaintiffs also sought a mandatory injunction directing the defendant to remove such obstacles placed there by her, and claimed damages for special injuries caused by the obstacles.

Mr. Walter V. Jones, the registrar of the hospital, said that the defendant lived just outside the gateway, which was used for the purpose of bringing in coal, oil, manure and building material for the use of the institution. In November, 1932, an oil lorry, with a supply of oil, could not enter the gateway owing to garden seats which defendant erected in front of her house preventing it from doing so. He had to send for a policeman, who ordered the removal of the seats to allow the lorry to go in. Defendant then bedded the seats in concrete, and they could not be removed. The oil supply to the hospital had now to be brought in in two lots. This left a sludge in the oil tank, with the result that the oil upset the oil-burning machines.

Mr. Alfred Walker, solicitor to the owner of defendant's house, said that defendant had no authority from his client to encroach upon the public road.

James Denehey, a porter employed at the hospital, said that when he attempted to remove the seat on the last occasion Miss Nutley struck him on the back. He brushed and raked the surface of the roadway leading up to the gateway.

Miss Nutley, the defendant, stated that the garden seats were outside her house for the past nineteen years. The presence of oil lorries outside her place interfered with her business of dressmaking.

Judge Shannon reserved judgment until to-day.

Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., with Mr. R. F. Cherry (instructed by Messrs. A. and L. Goodbody), appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., with Mr. Felix Sherry (instructed by Mr. Marcus A. Lynch), appeared for the defendant.

CIRCUIT CRIMINAL COURT.

The business of the Dublin Circuit Criminal Court will be conducted to-day at No. 7 Chancery Court, Chancery place, but to-morrow the business will be transferred to the Courthouse, Green street, where the sitting of the Central Criminal Court has now concluded.

Jurors and other interested parties are requested to note.

IRISH WEDDINGS IN LONDON.

MR. R. L. BERRIDGE AND MISS C. D. ORME.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Tuesday.

A wedding uniting two well-known Irish families took place this morning at Westminster Cathedral. It was that of Mr. Robert Lesley Berridge, Royal Engineers, eldest son of Mr. R. Berridge, D.L., and Mrs. Berridge, of Screebe, County Galway, and Miss Cicely Dorothea Orme, younger daughter of the late Christopher Guy Orme, D.L., of Owenmore, Crossmolina, County Mayo, and of the Hon. Mrs. Orme, of 16 Argyll road, London, W.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Howlett, D.D., officiated, and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Robert Orme. She wore a gown of oyster-tinted satin, with a very long train of the material trimmed with old Irish lace. Her veil was held by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a sheaf of Harrissi lilies.

Two little bridesmaids were Miss Ann Brownlow, the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. G. J. Brownlow, and Miss Pamela Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Southwell Fitzgerald.

Four older bridesmaids were Miss Lettice Orme, sister of the bride; Miss Nancy and Miss Laleen Berridge, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Honor Northern.

Mr. H. Carington Smith, of the Royal Engineers, was best man. The Hon. Mrs. Orme held a reception at 46 Chester square, lent by the bridegroom's parents.

MR. J. M. GOLDMAN AND MISS M. THESIGER.

Lord and Lady Inchiquin, of Dromoland Castle, Newmarket-on-Fergus, Co. Clare, were present at the wedding of the latter's sister, the Hon. Margaret Thesiger, with Mr. John Monk Goldman, eldest son of Major C. S. Goldman and the Hon. Mrs. Goldman, of Sydney Lodge, Hamble. The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Viscount Chelmsford and of the Dowager Viscountess Chelmsford.

The ceremony was at St. John's Church, Smith square, Westminster, where the Bishop of Salisbury officiated, assisted by Canon Barry. Viscount Chelmsford gave his sister away, and she wore a handsome gown of ice-blue satin with a train of the material arranged in run-ray pleating fashion from the skirt itself. Her veil was of tulle, dyed to match her gown, and held by a halo of white crystal. She carried a sheaf of white and deep pink lilies. Her train was carried by a little nephew, the Hon. Jan Thesiger, son and heir of Viscount Chelmsford, who wore a satin suit of material similar to the bride's dress.

Four small bridesmaids were the Hon. Deirdre and the Hon. Grania O'Brien, daughters of Lord and Lady Inchiquin; Miss Janet Dalrymple and Miss Lorna Gore-Browne. The older bridesmaids were Miss Juliet Peel, cousin of the bridegroom; Miss Vida Cuthbert, Miss Mimi Clive, Miss Jean Goschen, Miss Pamela Moseley, Miss Penelope Maffey and Miss Monica Duncan. The Hon. Edmond Howard was best man.

SICK ANIMALS' DISPENSARY

Mr. R. G. Quirk, executive secretary of the Tail-Waggers' Club of Ireland, in the course of a letter, says that he supports the recent appeal that was made in the Press for funds for the Parnell Street Dispensary of the Irish Animals' Protection League. He can confirm that, if funds are not forthcoming at an early date, it will be necessary to curtail the services of this excellent dispensary, or to close it altogether.

To date the Tail-Waggers' Club has been able to assist the League to the extent of £315, and will continue to do all that it possibly can to assist this most deserving charity, working in the interests of sick animals.

It is, however, essential, if the dispensary is to continue its good work, that it should get more extensive support from the animal-loving section of the community.

Mr. Quirk adds that any person visiting the dispensary during its working hours can see the care and attention bestowed upon animals brought there for free treatment, and would be impressed and readily subscribe to the funds of the League to ensure the continuance of its noble work, if not its extension.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

GEMS MISSING FROM DUBLIN HOUSE.

MANCHESTER MAN ACQUITTED.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Clarence Steevens, described as a bookmaker, with an address at 12 January street, Manchester, was found not guilty of having, on February 2, entered the dwellinghouse of John G. Clayton, Brighton square, Rathgar, Dublin, and stolen therefrom various articles of jewellery and a pair of Zeiss field glasses, with leather case, all of the value of £200. He was also found not guilty, on a second count, of receiving the glasses, knowing them to have been stolen.

Steevens had been tried and convicted of the charges, and sentenced to four years' imprisonment by Judge Shannon, but appealed to the Criminal Court of Appeal, which quashed the conviction and sentence and ordered a new trial.

Mr. James A. McCarthy, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuted, and Mr. W. O'B. Fitzgerald (instructed by Mr. James J. O'Connor) appeared for the defence.

Mr. Clayton gave evidence that he went to England on January 31, leaving his son and daughter to look after the house. Among the articles in the house were the jewellery and the field glasses referred to in the present case. All the goods had been lost except the field glasses.

Miss Joan Graves Clayton, daughter of the previous witness, said that she visited her father's house at 11 a.m. on February 2 and found it in order. About 10 o'clock that night she visited it again, and found that the jewellery and field glasses were missing.

Bernard Rogers deposed that in January he first met the accused man under the name of Thompson. Subsequently he met him in company with a man named Foster, a Mrs. Fawcett and others in a public-house at Burgh quay. Later he had a conversation in another public-house with "Thompson" (whom he had then come to know by the name of Steevens). Steevens said he was short of money, and, producing a pair of field glasses without a case, asked witness if he could sell them. Witness sold them to a publican for £3, which he gave to the accused man.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzgerald, witness said he had been arrested for the theft of the field glasses, brought to the Bridewell, charged in the District Court, and returned for trial, but the case was dropped.

WARRANT FOR WITNESS.

At this stage Mr. McCarthy, for the prosecution, made application for a warrant for the attendance of Mrs. Fawcett, who, he said, after stating that she would come to Court, had refused to do so. She had been served with a summons, and he understood she had now locked herself in and was being kept under supervision of the police. The warrant was granted.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that the case for the defence was that Steevens, during the time he was in Dublin, was constantly in the company of Rogers, a man named Foster, and Mrs. Fawcett, or one or other of them, and was never near the house in Brighton square, and that the first he heard of the field glasses was when Rogers offered to sell them to him.

TO BUY A DOG.

Steevens, in the witness-box, said that he came to Dublin for the first time on January 6, and left on the following evening. During the visit he met Rogers, and they had drinks. He returned to Dublin on February 2, and stayed until the 6th, when he left for Manchester, returning again on the 8th.

Cross-examined by Mr. McCarthy, the accused man said he came to Dublin to see about the purchase of a dog. He admitted that he had never seen a dog at any time during his stay, but, by arrangement with a publican in Burgh quay, he had gone to a hotel to see a dog-owner. Before coming to Dublin he had made a book during the months of August and September last at dog tracks in England, and also at race meetings in York and Doncaster. Foster had been engaged at Bellevue dog-track. He denied emphatically that when he left Dublin on February 6 he took the stolen jewellery with him. He had sent £2 to Rogers from Manchester for a pair of glasses, but had not got them.

Mr. McCarthy elected not to address the jury.

Mr. Fitzgerald, for the defence, said that the evidence against the accused man was the thinnest of the thin. There was nothing to connect him with entering the house of Mr. Clayton, and the only witness against him with regard to receiving the field glasses was that of a man who had himself been arrested and charged with the possession of the glasses.

The jury should not take into consideration the proceedings of the accused man in Dublin or his moral character in connection with his doings with his associates in Dublin. Steevens had come to Dublin to buy dogs, but instead of doing so had "gone on a spree" with those with whom he had come in contact.

Judge Davitt having summed up, the jury retired, and after an absence of about three-quarters of an hour brought in a verdict of not guilty on both counts. Steevens was discharged.

NINE YOUTHS BEFORE TRIBUNAL.

ALLEGED ATTACK ON GUARDS' BARRACKS.

An attack on Civic Guards, the rescue of a prisoner, and stone-throwing at the Leap (Co. Cork) Guard Barracks, were mentioned in charges preferred against nine young men, who, yesterday, appeared before the Military Tribunal at Collins Barracks, Dublin. The case was adjourned for eight days, by request of the defence.

The accused men are:—Patrick Keohane, junior, Kilfinnan; Patrick Burns, Tullig; Patrick Daly, Tullig; James Keane, Cashel; Jas. Mahony, Dunscullib; Chas. Cunningham, Barleyhill; John M. Connolly, Paddock, Drinagh; Wm. McCarthy, Carrigbawn; Patrick Sullivan, Clounties.

They were yesterday charged jointly with assaulting Guards Martin McManus and Nicholas Mulhall, while the latter were executing their duty, at Leap, Co. Cork, on February 4th, 1934; wilfully damaging the Guard station at Leap, on the same date, by throwing stones thereat, and breaking a pane of glass; conspiring, with other persons unknown, to assault the Guards mentioned and damage the Leap station. Eight of the men were also charged with forcibly rescuing the ninth, Daniel Keohane, from the lawful custody of Guard Mulhall.

The Attorney-General, prosecuting, was represented by Mr. J. S. O'Connor, solicitor.

Mr. Eoin O'Mahony appeared for eight of the accused men (instructed by Mr. M. Harrington).

Mr. J. Kavanagh appeared for the accused McCarthy (instructed by Mr. J. Travers Wolffe, Skibbereen).

On the application of Mr. O'Mahony and Mr. Kavanagh, the President of the Tribunal granted an adjournment until Wednesday next, the 18th instant. There was no objection raised by Mr. O'Connor.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT

DISTURBANCES IN KERRY.

A SERIES OF CHARGES.

STORY OF NIGHT RAIDS.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

A NUMBER of young men from Kerry were arraigned before the Court on various charges connected with incidents in that county in recent months.

The first case was one in which the hearing was resumed of a charge against Martin Moriarty (20), Droum West, Glenbeigh, Co. Kerry, of having, on March 13, in Kerry, shot at Patrick Clifford with intent to murder him. He was also charged with having shot at Clifford with intent to do him grievous bodily harm; having in his possession a revolver, with intent to endanger life, and having a firearm without a certificate.

Mr. Joseph A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. Kevin Haugh (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., T.D., and Mr. Fionan Lynch, T.D. (instructed by Mr. E. B. Slattery, solicitor, Tralee), defended.

The evidence concluded on the previous afternoon, and Mr. Lynch addressed the jury for the defence.

Mr. Kevin Haugh addressed the jury on behalf of the State.

Mr. Justice Hanna, summing-up, said:—"One thing the young people of this country want to learn is to live and let live. I am afraid, however, that it is one of the very last things that they will ever learn."

Dealing with the fight between Moriarty and Clifford, Mr. Justice Hanna said that no one in this country should object to a "stand-up" fight between two young men. The case became different if they used fire arms.

The jury found the prisoner not guilty on all counts, and he was discharged from custody.

ARMED ROBBERY OF SHIRTS.

FARMER'S SON SENTENCED.

Martin Kirby (20), farmer's son, Ballinclogher, Lixnaw, County Kerry, was charged with having, while armed with a revolver, on May 12 last, robbed Thomas Somers and Edward Moloney, Knockrea, Co. Kerry, of blue shirts, and Kitty Steck, Knockrea, of a blue blouse; with conspiring with others to steal blue shirts and blouses from other persons in the county, and intimidating the owners to surrender them; with having a revolver in his possession with intent to endanger life, and with having a revolver without a permit.

On the previous day a jury found the prisoner mute of malice, and not by the visitation of God.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. K. Haugh prosecuted; prisoner was undefended and answered no questions.

Christopher Somers, farmer, said his house was raided about 10.30 p.m. on May 12 by about thirty men, most of whom were armed with rifles and revolvers, and wore masks. Flashlamps were shone in his face, and he was told to put his hands up. The men demanded blue shirts. Some of them threatened to shoot him, and he said: "Shoot me." A man struck him on the shoulder with a rifle.

The rifle was snatched from the raider, and witness struck him with a sweeping brush. He brought one man to his knees and broke the handle of the brush on him. The man ran away, and his comrades opened fire. Witness got another brush and flung it after them. The blue shirt was given to the men when they were in the house.

Thomas Somers, son of the previous witness, gave evidence that he was told to hold up his hands and not to go to General O'Duffy's meeting in Listowel on May 14.

Mrs. Mary Hickey, Knockrea, who lives with her brother, Edward Moloney, told how raiders came to their house on the night of May 12 and took a blue shirt away.

Miss Kitty Stack said that the men visited her mother's house and demanded her blue blouse. They asked was she the local "Blue Blouse" captain. She replied that she was. They took the blouse and went to the door, where two of them turned back and cautioned Maurice Lyons, who was in the house at the time, not to attend General O'Duffy's meeting.

A STATEMENT.

Superintendent P. O'Sullivan read a long statement made to him by prisoner to the effect that he and another man met a group of men, who said they were about to raid houses for blue shirts. Two rifles, three revolvers, masks and some shotguns were carried. They raided several houses and warned men not to attend General O'Duffy's meeting. At Somers's house he saw three or four of his party run out, with an old man after them. Someone said that the old man had a brush. Farther on it was pointed out that a rifle had been left behind, but, because it was the only loaded rifle, no one would volunteer to go back for it.

The State case having closed, Kirby replied to the Registrar: "As a soldier of the Irish Republic, I refuse to make any statement."

Mr. Justice Hanna, addressing the jury, said it was a monstrous state of affairs that respectable persons should have been raided for blue shirts—or any other shirts.

Kirby was found guilty on all counts, except that of possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life.

Mr. Justice Hanna, imposing a sentence of four months' imprisonment from the date of arrest, said that he took into consideration the fact that prisoner had been in custody for eleven weeks, that he had made a complete statement to the Superintendent of the Guards, and that he had received a good character. If at any time within the four months he entered into bail to be of good behaviour his release would be recommended.

ALLEGED RIOTOUS ASSEMBLY.

EIGHT YOUTHS CHARGED.

Eight young men were charged with riotous assembly at a meeting at Ballybunion, Co. Kerry, on March 4. They were:—Maurice Higgins and Charles Rochford, Clahane, Ballyduff; William and Patrick Thornton, Clashmelcon, Ballyduff; Jeremiah Nolan, William street, Listowel; Daniel O'Connor, Ahaskera, Lisselton; John Flavin and John Kissane, Gunsboro', Listowel.

When asked to plead, Higgins said nothing. All the others, in turn, said that, as soldiers of the Irish Republic, they refused to plead. After Patrick Thornton's refusal, Mr. Justice Hanna declared: "I won't have any of these answers. You must either plead guilty or not guilty."

Higgins, asked a second time, said the same as his companions.

"I regard this demonstration by you, accused," said Mr. Justice Hanna, "as a deliberately planned insult to, and defiance of, the authority of this Court, which cannot be tolerated. This is not a personal matter. It is the duty of every judge in his office to maintain the dignity and the decorum of his own Court, and to protect it when the administration of justice is endeavoured to be insulted and defied, as you eight men have done."

He then sentenced them to a calendar month's imprisonment each for contempt. If any one of them, he said, wished to apologise in the course of that time, he could do so to him (Mr. Justice Hanna) or to the vacation judge, and that apology would bring a recommendation that the prisoner be released.

The trial of the eight prisoners was then adjourned.

One prisoner shouted: "No peace with the Imperialists!" The others cried: "Up the Republic!" and "Up Kerry!" as they were being taken to the cells.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. K. Haugh appeared for the State.

This concluded the business of the Court, and Mr. Justice Hanna thanked Superintendent Brennan and the Guards for the manner in which they had maintained order in the Court.

TONE AND COMMENT

DUBLIN QUIET.

LAND BONDS FIRM.

The feature of the Dublin Stock Market yesterday was the support accorded to local securities in quiet dealing conditions. Free State Loans remained steady, and Land Bonds were strong, and 7s. 6d. to the good. War Loan remained firm, and Land Stock 1903 was 5s. up.

Dublin Corporation 5 per cent. Red. rose 1¼ to 107—an overdue increment.

Rails and Trams were not very busy, and former quotations were repeated in all cases.

National Bank gained 3d., Guinness was 3d. better, and Dublin Distillers "A" repeated 4, but Cairnes Ord. and Pref. were easier, the former losing 5s. and the latter 2s. 6d. Alliance Gas, Chocolate Debs., Heiton Pref. and Irish Tanners Prefs. were all unchanged. Hammond Lane gained 1s., Lafayette Pref. shot up 5s., and Irish-American Oil Pref. rose 6d.

There were no signs of expansion in the Industrial market, but the tone was better. Coats rose 1s., and Imperial Tobacco closed 9d. dearer.

LONDON IRREGULAR.

NEW HIGH RECORDS IN BRITISH FUNDS.

Business in a number of departments of the London Stock Markets continued on a good scale yesterday, and fresh substantial appreciations were scored in numerous instances, the closing levels, in a few instances, constituting new high records. Interest was again principally confined to British Funds and Rails, and at the close these presented a practically unbroken array of substantial gains. Other firm spots were provided by Rubber shares and Oil descriptions, though in neither of these markets could business be described as being active. On the other hand, numerous dull features developed, Gold shares generally seeking lower levels, while many of the Industrial leaders returned reduced values, and thus the list of price movements registered at the close made an irregular showing.

As indicated above, the outstanding feature was again provided by British Funds, which, in face of a continuance of the strong support noticeable recently, scored fresh substantial gains. New high records were attained in two instances—Conversion Threes reaching 101 11/16, an advance of ⅛ on the day, while Funding Loan gained ⅛ to 115. Of the others, Consols 2½ per cent. and 4 per cent. were put ½ and ⅛ firmer to 80⅜ and 112 respectively, while War Loan 3½ per cent. gained ⅛ to 104 1/16, with Victory Bonds a similar fraction higher at 113⅛. Local Loans spurted sharply to 92⅝, against 92 5/16 overnight. India stocks all showed a firm front, and Irish Free State Land Bonds at 110 were ½ to the good. There was not a great deal going on among Foreign Government Stocks, and, apart from German Bonds, which were again lowered materially, quotations showed little change. Chinese and Japanese issues showed a few fractional gains, but Peruvian Corps. went off the turn. Among Germans, the 7 per cent. and 5½ per cent. each shed a further point, with the Potash 7 per cent. a full 2 points lower at 71.

British Rails continued under the influence of the more optimistic views entertained regarding the wages question and the dividend outlook, and buying on a good scale was again apparent, quotations advancing smartly. Great Western Ord. went 1½ points harder to 53½, and Southern Pref.-Ord. at 80¼ and the Def.-Ord at 26½ were 1¼ and ⅜ higher. Mid land Ord. put on ⅞, and most of the Preferences were from ½ to 1½ points better, the market closing on a strong note. Rather easier conditions characterised Colonial and Foreign Rails, though, apart from fractional recessions in the Argentine descriptions, little material change was registered.

Business in the Industrial department was slack, and the general trend of values was against holders, though in a few instances decidedly improved quotations were returned at the close. Dunlops were a good market, as were Leyland Motors, Smith's Crisps and Sodan Plantations. British Oxygen, on the other hand, weakened sharply, as did Thomas Tillings, while Aircraft issues went off. In other directions, Mines, as a whole, disclosed an easier trend, though a good recovery was evident in certain instances towards the end. Oils and Rubber descriptions continued firm, the latter rising in sympathy with the raw material.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

BREWERIES BETTER.

Several bright spots gave the Industrial and Miscellaneous markets a cheerful appearance yesterday and the undertone remained firm. What was described as knowledgeable buying caused Cables and Wireless issues to open higher. There has been some quiet nibbling at the Pref. Stock for some time on dividend prospects, and yesterday morning's support led to bidding up to 69½. After dipping to 68¾ at mid-day, renewed buying put the price up to the best again. The "A" Pref. rose in sympathy, but the "B" did not get beyond the level figure of 7. Marconi Marine were bought up to 29s. 3d.

As on Monday, Aviation and kindred descriptions were inclined to dullness; for, although no heavy selling pressure was encountered, prices generally moved to lower levels.

A good feature was provided in the Motor group by Leylands, which responded to a fair demand, the shares rising 6d. to 34s., and Fords hardened to 31s. 1½d. On the other hand, Thomas Tilling further fell 1/16 to 4 7/16.

A steady business was transacted in Iron, Coal and Steel descriptions, but price movements made an irregular showing.

In the Departmental Stores group, Marks and Spencer continued their upward course, being 1/16 higher at 11 11/16, and Woolworth Pref. hardened to 30s. 9d.

Support was lacking for Textile issues, and prices where altered were generally to lower levels.

American Celanese were conspicuous in the Rayon group, rising further to 5 7/16. Cellulose Acetate came on offer before the meeting, losing 7½d. at 14s., the Deferred turning easier at 2s. 10½d. British Celanese finished a few pence lower. Courtaulds were a shade off at 50s. 7½d., and looked dull.

Tobacco looked cheerful under the lead of "Bats."

Although business in Brewery stocks was never brisk, the tone was firm and the demand of the good investment order. Ind Coope rose 1s. to 80s. 6d., Watney Deferred closed harder at 61s. 3d., and Guinness changed hands around 111s. 9d. A rally in Brewers and Distillers of Vancouver was due to bear covering. The no-par shares had an active market between 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d. South African Breweries were 6d. lower.

Among the leading Miscellaneous counters, Dunlops received support, finishing 9d. higher at 45s. 6d. on provincial buying. The 10 per cent. Preference were bought up to 30s. Chemical Preference hardened to 32s. 6d., and the Ordinary had lively trading around 35s. 6d. The Deferred were better at 8s. 9d. British Oxygen were subject to profit-taking, and gave way to 72s. 3d., being 2s. lower at this price.

OIL SHARES IMPROVE.

Following the receipt of satisfactory advices from New York overnight in regard to the course of American Oil stocks, the Oil Share Market opened yesterday with a steady appearance.

Opening prices were at about the levels ruling overnight, and no selling pressure was encountered in any direction.

As the day progressed business came along more freely than of late, small buying orders being received for the leaders and certain of the more speculative favourites, and, although the best levels were not always held, some appreciable gains were registered.

RUBBER SHARES FIRM.

While trading in the Rubber share market yesterday was on only a moderately active scale, the firm conditions manifest recently continued in evidence, and prices were raised materially in a number of directions, the movement being accentuated by the fresh appreciation in the commodity and the fact that the recent demand has left the market in short supply. After a quiet and steady opening, firmer conditions developed in the raw material department, and at the close a strong tone ruled, values being appreciably higher. Spot and July sold 7 5/16d. to 7 7/16d. per lb., October to December 7½d. to 7 9/16d. and 7 9/16d. per lb., January to March 7⅝d. to 7⅝d. and 7 11/16d. per lb., and April to June 7⅝d. to 7 11/16d. and 7 11/16d. per lb.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

The American market in Shorter's Court last evening experienced a much firmer tone than of late, and prices advanced on stronger New York cables. Nickels gained 1/16 to 25 11/16, and Hydros closed at 5 5/16. Tractions were bid for at 8 11/16, as were "Canadas" at 13⅞. Radios hardened to 6⅞, while Woolworth were a few pence better at 103s. 9d. Other bright spots were "Emmies" at 28s. 9d. and Steels at 46⅛.

LONDON MINING MARKET SMALL.

PRICES IRREGULAR.

No material change was observable in the Mining Market yesterday, business in all departments being still on a very small scale.

Kaffirs had a downward trend, but the shrinkages were the result of the adoption of precautionary measures by dealers rather than of actual sales. Most shares opened dull, but here and there a better tone developed later on a little Cape support. The buying from that quarter, however, was very limited in extent, and was confined to a few specialities.

Dulness ruled in the Rhodesian department, business being on a very restricted scale, and in the absence of demand dealers lowered quotations.

West Africans showed no signs of shaking off their depression, and the small amount of business put through resulted in a general lowering of values.

With the price of the metal unchanged, Tin descriptions were quiet, though among Eastern issues Kramat-Pulai were being steadily bid for on the highly satisfactory showing made by the report. The demand coming on a market but poorly supplied with shares lifted the price substantially. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET

FALL IN SILVER.

Gold was again quoted 1d. higher yesterday, being 138s. 0½d. per ounce fine. At this price about £555,000 was sold in the market.

There was a fair demand for money during the early hours, borrowers usually paying ½ p.c. for short loans. In the discount market fine three months' bills remained at ⅞ p.c., and the "hot" Treasuries were quoted at 11/16 p.c. Silver fell 1/16d. on China selling to 20 1/16d. per ounce for spot and 20 3/16d. for forward delivery. Speculators were buyers at the lower level.

Movements in the Foreign Exchange Market yesterday were comparatively small, while business was restricted. Sterling showed a weak tendency during the morning, and rates became even less favourable to London, the Paris quotation declining at one time to 76⅝, only a little above the record low rate established a few weeks ago. The movement was not maintained throughout, however, and, following a little selling of francs and dollars, the principal rates moved back, to close without material change on the day. Far Eastern currencies were quiet, while rates were without material change. South American currencies were also not subject to alteration.

The directors of Martin's Bank, Ltd., announce that Mr. E. B. Orme, J.P., a deputy chairman of the bank since 1929, has been appointed Chairman, in succession to the late Mr. Alex Allen Paton, C.B. They also announce that Mr. Richard D. Holt, J.P., LL.D., has been appointed a Deputy Chairman. Mr. Orme is a partner in the firm of Messrs. Reynolds and Gibson, cotton brokers, Liverpool. When the world cotton conference was held at Liverpool in 1921 he acted as vice-president, and he has served upon various committees formed owing to war and post-war conditions. Mr. Holt is a partner in Messrs. Alfred Holt and Co., shipowners, Liverpool, and one of the managers of the Ocean Steamship Co., Ltd. He is Chairman of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board, and of the Elder Dempster Lines, Ltd.

Legal Tender Note Fund.

The amount of legal tender notes outstanding on July 7th, 1934, was £7,201,329, as compared with £7,157,122 10s. on June 30th, 1934. The amount issued during the week was £156,024, and the amount redeemed £111,817 10s.

Stephen's Green Cinema.

The statutory meeting was held yesterday at Mills' Hall, Merrion row, Dublin, Mr. Barnett, deputy-chairman, presiding. The chairman pointed out that the statutory report, which had been sent to every member, showed the receipts and payments to the 21st June, 1934, and that since that date the arrears of allotment money, amounting to £23, had been received. It was reported that the purchase of the site having now been completed and the plans provisionally approved by the Dublin Corporation, every possible step will be taken to avoid delay in connection with the erection of the building, and the chairman hoped that quite soon the demolition of the old building will be completed and a start made on construction.

Shellac.

Messrs. Hicks Brothers report as follows:—"The liquidation of a fair quantity of August delivery during the past week has had the effect of putting prices on to a lower basis, but as soon as the selling ceased, values immediately improved. Buying interest is again broadening, and the outside element has been attracted by the lower prices ruling, also by the steadiness in Calcutta, where prices are once more well above the London parity. Reuter's New York correspondent reports this week that buyers are apparently afraid that speculators will shortly attempt to unload their holdings which proves that the American buyer has not yet realised the financial strength of the holders on this side. Buyers here have long ago realised that there will be no unloading, and that the cheap prices of last year have gone. The trade demand continues, and deliveries from wharf—viz., 27,947 packages to date—show an improvement compared with the same period last year, when the total was 19,902."

Rand Gold Output.

Gold production of the Transvaal mines for June was 868,129 ounces, valued at £6 17s. per fine ounce. This compares with 898,418 ounces valued at £6 15s. per ounce in May, and 918,633 ounces valued at £6 per ounce in June, 1933. The number of natives employed in the gold mines at the end of June, 1934, was 1,278 more than in May at 244,857.

The chief objects of the company are to carry on business as manufacturers and vendors of peat products of every kind, and to purchase or otherwise acquire any interests in any patent, brevets d'invention, licences, concessions and the like in connection with the drying, handling or treatment of peat or the recovery of any products therefrom, and to acquire the benefit of certain existing inventions in relation to the drying, handling and treatment of peat, and with a view thereto to enter into and carry into effect the agreement with Peco, Ltd., mentioned in Article 3 of the Articles of Association, with such modifications (if any) as may seem necessary.

The company is to enter into agreements with (1) Peco, Ltd., of the first part, Techno-Chemical Laboratories, Ltd., of the second part, and British and Foreign Fuels, Ltd., of the third part; (2) Babcock and Wilcox, Ltd., for the erection of the company's factory or factories; (3) with British Dominion Lands Settlement Corporation, Ltd.; (4) with the Minister for Industry and Commerce, and (5) with Sir John Purser Griffith and the Leinster Carbonising Company, Ltd., for the acquisition of lands situate at Ticknevin, Co. The directors recommend that a dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent., less income tax, be paid. This year The Connacht Tribune celebrates the silver jubilee of its foundation and the twenty-third year since its incorporation as a limited liability company. The auditors state that no amount has been provided for depreciation of plant since 1931, but the report states that conditions have been guarded against deterioration.

Longai Valley Tea.—In 1933 working profits amounted to £14,486, and £256 (as against £278) was earned on investments. A year ago a profit of £162 was made on sale of investments, and a refund of £88 was received on account of income tax, but a depreciation of £499 was written off investments. On this occasion sundry items absorbed £190, and a debit of £19,778 was brought in. From this total of £19,957 was deducted the year's earnings of £14,742, and the deficit of £5,216 is to be carried forward. The last dividend was 10 per cent. for 1927. Owing to unsatisfactory conditions the crop declined by 13,596lb.

Semenyih Rubber Estate.—Dividend for year ended 30th April, 1934, of 10 per cent., less tax. (Nil.)

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

The Litter Problem : Garden Ornaments : A Returned Habsburg. Judges' Hobbies : Window-Boxes.

Window-Boxes.

I notice that the practice of decorating window-sills with flowers grown in boxes is spreading in Dublin, and even in the poorer quarters of the city there is some rivalry among householders as to who shall present the most attractive display. Unfortunately, the boxes have usually to be relegated to windows higher than the first floor, in order to keep them out of the reach of mischievous urchins. It is possible that in time these boxes will become almost as characteristic of the period as the white horses and other ornaments in the fanlights of Georgian houses. Most of them have the same design—a railed fence with a gate in the centre painted on the front of the box. Some of the city hotels have very attractive window-boxes, and there are other public buildings to which the custom might be extended. It is an excellent method of introducing a note of gaiety among the bricks and mortar, for which, I believe, the credit should be given to the institution of Civic Week, which has helped to perpetuate this pleasant scheme of decoration.

Judges' Hobbies.

It has sometimes been stated that certain hobbies go with certain professions, and that it has often been found that frequently hobbies are the antithesis of one's bread and butter occupation. No one could generalise about the hobbies of the legal profession in Ireland, however, since hardly two of those pursuing law seem to share the same. The Chief Justice, when confined to the house owing to ill-health on one occasion, asked for some lists of statistics as a form of light literature. One of his colleagues told me that he is included among those men to whom recreation means change of occupation. Mr. Justice Sullivan is fond of good glass, and his collection includes some fine old Waterford and French pieces. Mr. Justice Hanna is a lover of dogs, and sometimes adjudicates at dog shows. Mr. Justice Meredith devotes much of his spare time to philosophy. He attended a philosophical congress at Prague this year, and has written several books on Kant and treatises on æsthetics.

The Rook's Breakfast.

I happened to be on Killiney Strand at an early hour the other morning (writes a correspondent), when the only other occupants of the beach were a colony of seagulls at the edge of the waves and half-a-dozen rooks a little further inland. No bird walks in a more ungainly, and even comical, fashion than the rook, and my attention was attracted by this aspect until I noticed one of the birds flutter to a certain spot on the sands, where he began to scratch violently. When the search appeared to be fruitless the rook moved suddenly about a yard further on, thrust his beak into the sand, and drew out portion of an eel. Unfortunately, the grip was not secure, and the quarry escaped again into the sand. The other rooks came cawing around, and apparently confused the issue; for the hunter flapped his wings at them in great indignation. They, too, began to dig, but the original rook moved on to a further spot, where, after another scratch and run, he succeeded in capturing a more manageable sand eel. He then rose in the air, with the victim still wriggling in his beak, and flew towards a high wall, on the top of which he settled down to enjoy a comfortable breakfast at leisure. Probably this rook was an old and experienced sand-fisher; for when I left the strand his companions were still scratching without result.

Garden Ornaments.

I wonder what gave rise to the modern fashion of utilising stone images of small animals, elves, and other grotesque figures as garden ornaments. It is difficult to believe that this craze will prove more enduring than many of the strange notions of the Victorian era. Our grandparents were fond of erecting statues of plaster and stucco on their lawns, and among their shrubs and flowers, but these soon became chipped and discoloured by weather and age. To my mind, the only artificial ornament suitable to a garden is a sun-dial, because this ancient method of recording time is reminiscent of a more leisured age, even if it has to be adjusted to meet the requirements of the late Mr. Willett. A garden in summer is a place for leisure and reflection, and it is always pleasant to watch the shadow "steal from the dial, and no pace perceived." A mathematical friend of mine once set himself to construct a moon dial, only to find that the queen of heaven fully deserved her reputation for inconstancy, since she does not always move along the path of her orbit at the same rate of speed.

A Thoughtless Pastime.

It would, I suppose, be invidious to interfere too drastically with those who go to enjoy a well-earned week-end trip to the seaside, but even on a holiday a little consideration for others might be recommended. The residents of some watering-places near Dublin have had occasion to complain, for instance, of the litter left behind by trippers, and it might be advisable if the local authorities were to encourage or compel visitors to consume their own rubbish, and leave the strand as they found it. Even worse than the deposit of litter, however, is the dangerous practice of setting up empty bottles and throwing stones at them. Many bathers, walking barefooted along the sands, have been injured by treading on pieces of broken glass, the result of this thoughtless sport. The jagged edges are equally dangerous, whether they are carried out to sea or remain half-buried in the sand. There is no necessity to use a bottle, since the game can be played equally well with an empty tin or an ordinary stone, although there are some people who derive exhilaration from the crashing of glass. Probably a notice prohibiting the breaking of bottles might do something to deter these enthusiasts.

Archduke Eugene.

One hears rumours and counter-rumours of the possibility of a Habsburg restoration, but Archduke Eugene has taken the first step, as far as settling in Austria is concerned, and has returned to Gumpoldskirchen. The Archduke is seventy-two years old, and is the last Grand Master of the German Order of Saint Maria of Jerusalem. The castle in Gumpoldskirchen is seven centuries old, and is the seat of the Order, as well as being famous for its wine. In the old days Archduke Eugene was a well-known figure in Vienna, and, unlike the pictures of the Habsburg often painted in the popular novel, a great democrat. It is true that this quality existed in him while he remained the Grand Seigneur of an ancient feudal state. But it did not win him less affection for that. He was the Market Women and Flower Women's Archduke, and special days for his visit were set aside, one when the women would present him with a bouquet of flowers. He went about the streets a great deal on foot, and anyone who lived in Vienna for any length of time could see the unusually tall figure in uniform, on whose breast shone medals and decorations, striding through the streets. A friend of mine who lived in Vienna for some years told me that he saw him on a few occasions, and noticed that people who identified him moved aside to let him pass. Some of the women stepped on to the roadway and curtsied. They were rewarded by the most courteous and brief of all salutations—that of an Austrian officer. It is an amusing fact, never touched on by the popular exponents of his life, that many of the Archdukes spoke German with a very broad Viennese accent, almost in the manner of the humblest people, analogous, perhaps, to speaking English with a strong brogue.

QUIDNUNC.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

SAINTS AND SCHOLARS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your leading article in your last Saturday's issue, headed "Saints and Scholars," should make the Irish people furiously to think. I have lived with three generations of our people, and I have witnessed a steady deterioration in their moral character. The worst elements in their nature were brought out during the civil war of 1922-3, and they are still suffering from the effects of that war. When the British Government proposed to buy out Irish landlords to create an Irish peasant proprietary the Irish Party stressed the fact that the Irish people never defaulted in meeting their financial obligations. The Irish people in those days were honest, and strictly observed their honourable obligations. De Valerism has to a large extent killed that characteristic.

The influence of the Catholic bishops and priests has undoubtedly weakened. Their Lenten pastorals have little or no effect on our young people. During the civil war, when the bishops, led by Cardinal Logue, condemned the party responsible for the destruction of railway bridges, the robbing of banks and of private citizens, etc., and emphasised the sinfulness of such atrocities, their protests and their theology were repudiated, and Miss Mary MacSweeny threatened to appeal to Rome against the theology of Cardinal Logue. The young people became utterly demoralised. They had no respect for truth or honesty or decency.

Ireland is said to be the most Catholic country in the world, and in one sense it is. But is it the most Christian country? I was talking to a priest in Athlone—he was a member of one of the Orders—and I said to him, "There are many Catholics in Ireland." "Oh, yes, thank God," he replied. "But," said I, "I am afraid these are not all Christians." "I know what you mean," he said, and that ended the conversation. Good Christians are not addicted to telling lies, or taking false oaths in the courts, or repudiating their lawful debts, or other breaches of Christ's teaching, the observance of which constitute real religion.

I wish that your splendid and patriotic article on "Saints and Scholars" could be read by the whole Irish people.—Yours, etc.,

AN EPIDEMIC OF INSANITY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—That part of Ireland known as the Irish Free State has changed so much in recent years that I have been trying to discover a theory which will account for the facts. The theory at which I have arrived is that since 1916 a considerable number of people in Ireland have lost their mental balance and are suffering from delusions. The sooner we wake up to this fact the better. The disease may be described as nationalism gone mad. The most dangerous delusion is that an Irish Republic, separated from the British Commonwealth of Nations, would benefit Ireland. Do those who advocate such a Republic ever pause to consider the possible or probable consequences? Hitherto the British Empire has been Ireland's Empire, and her sons and daughters to-day occupy prominent positions in every part of it. Is all this to cease, and are our people to be treated as aliens and foreigners where once they were treated as honourable, useful and trustworthy citizens?

Another delusion is that the Irish people are a race distinct and separate from the British people For close on 800 years English, Scots, Welsh and Irish have been intermarrying and living together as neighbours and as citizens of a common Empire. These four ancient parent nations long ago have been fused into one race, which now dominates the greater part of the world. The clearest proof of this is to be found in those ancient Irish families with Gaelic names which can trace their descent from the old kings and chieftains of Ireland, and kept their oath of allegiance to the English Crown, and so escaped the confiscations which were the punishment of those who broke their oaths and rebelled. They have freely intermarried with the British, and are as much British as Irish.

A third delusion is the idea that it is desirable, or possible, to substitute Irish for English as the vernacular language of the inhabitants of Ireland. I can understand, and sympathise with those who have a passionate love for the ancient tongue of this country, just as I can understand the man who has a passionate love for Greek or Hebrew; but the ordinary Irishman will stick to the language which his mother taught him, the language of his home and friends; a language which will carry him almost anywhere; a language which opens to him an inexhaustible and incomparable literature.

Another delusion is that we show our patriotism by quarrelling with our next-door neighbours, by calling them bad names, and by trampling upon their dearest ideals and their tenderest susceptibilities. This is mere vulgarity and bad manners. It is often said, and with truth, that an Irish peasant, no matter how humble his station in life, is nature's gentleman. I speak from long experience as a Protestant clergyman. It is this innate courtesy, and kindly and generous feeling, which hitherto have made it possible for those who differ in religion and politics to live together as the best of friends and neighbours. May it long continue; but is there no danger of our losing it?

I could mention many more instances of delusion and loss of mental balance. Your readers easily will call them to mind. I must refer, however, to one which is a serious menace to the peace and prosperity of our country. It is the idea that England has some sinister design against the freedom of this country. This is a complete delusion. Having made a Treaty with us, English statesmen will keep their word. The English people to-day have no other designs towards the Irish Free State than to see it peaceful, prosperous, and friendly. The attitude of our present Government towards the Treaty has grieved and disappointed them very deeply; but they believe that this is but a passing phase, and that a better spirit will take its place in due time. They believe that a policy of patience and forbearance, and abstinence from all threats and violence, will win in the long run. The British Lion, conscious of his own strength, will stand a good deal of tail-twisting; but is it wise to provoke him too far? He made a nasty spring over the land annuities, and he might spring again over the proclamation of an Irish republic. Surely the wise course is to have him as a friend rather than an enemy; and we can have this without any loss of our national dignity.—Yours, etc.,

IRISH UNITY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In view of the 12th of July, and some of the speeches which we may expect from our neighbours in the North, the following incident may be of interest:—

In a small town South-West of Dublin the Church of Ireland Rector is about to leave for another parish, and at a committee meeting of the British Legion Club's committee, consisting of seven Roman Catholics and myself, a Protestant, the matter was brought up. After several of the committee had spoken of the Rector in the very highest terms, in which I purposely took no part, it was decided to spend a very considerable amount of the available funds in buying him a present as a memento of all he had done for the ex-Service men and their dependants. Though I suggested that the sum agreed on was rather more than they ought to spend, I got no support from the rest of the committee. Admittedly this is a fine and well-deserved tribute to the man himself, but I also think it is a very fair example of how we in the South work together without bringing in the question of religion.—Yours, etc.,

"EX-OFFICER."

Co. Carlow, July 9th, 1934.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your correspondent writes on the Free State and its success, and then says that a continuance of the present system will end in utter disaster. How can that be? What kind of union does he also want? The Republic of January, 1919, had not any use for federal government; it was to be blasting powder, and then the end. The stones of partition at Mount street Bridge and Stormont will remain as the marks of bankrupt Irish statesmanship. When the people of Southern Ireland rightly understand the necessities of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the people of Great Britain rightly understand the sentiments of the people of Southern Ireland, everything will be possible. Until then Governments are not omnipotent, but can harm.—Yours, etc.,

CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—"W.B.O." might just as well assert that Christ has failed in this world because so many people have failed to follow his teaching. He taught us to pray "Lead us not into Temptation," and that is why the Catholic Church, not only in Ireland, but all over the world, tries to keep temptation away from weak human nature.—Yours, etc.,

EFFORTS TO SAVE CELTIC LANGUAGES.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND ANCIENT TONGUE.

GROWING DIFFICULTIES OF SCOTS GAELS.

DANGERS arising from a policy of trying to absorb minorities in Europe to-day by suppressing their language and traditions were referred to by a Welsh member of Parliament in a speech at yesterday's session of the Celtic Congress at University College, Dublin.

He was Dr. F. Llewellyn Jones, M.P. (Wales), who remarked that in the House of Commons there were only four Scottish Gaelic-speaking members, though there were twenty-three or twenty-four Welsh-speaking members, and pointed out that in recent years there had never been any attempt by the authorities to interfere with the speaking of Gaelic in Scotland or its use in the schools.

DR. LLEWELLYN JONES.

"Five years ago," he continued, "I attended a conference in Geneva representative of a large number of the small nationality groups of Europe—some of them very small, with only about 100,000 people They are having a struggle for their national existence such as none of us can conceive. Every attempt is being made to crush out not merely the use of their national language, but their traditions and their aspirations. Unfortunately, the League of Nations has failed to do anything to protect them.

"I feel that, if those who have to administer the minority treaties on the Continent were aware of what is being done in Scotland in connection with the Gaelic culture, tradition and language, they would not hesitate to adopt the same methods. The idea that many of the public officials who are administrators for the paramount majorities in these countries have is that the proper thing to do is to try to absorb all these small minorities. England tried it in Ireland, and we know with what result. The tragedy of Ireland for centuries was due to that policy. It is a policy that failed, and must fail. If the policy of England in centuries gone by had been an entirely different one—a policy of conciliation, of treating Irishmen as equals in every respect—we should have been saved much of the tragedy. I dread to think what is going to happen in some of the countries of Europe, because a similar policy is being followed there."

IN PUBLIC LIFE.

Dr. Llewellyn Jones went on to suggest that the Gaelic people of Scotland should use their language more largely in public administration. He believed that it was very rarely used on local councils or in the courts, which was a calamity. Justice could not be properly administered if the language of the people to whom it had to be administered was disregarded, and he was afraid Scotland had not got so far in this respect as Wales, where no county court judge was appointed for any area, except one where only English was spoken, if he did not know Welsh.

Dr. Llewellyn Jones was discussing a paper which had been delivered by the Rev. Dr. Neill Ross (Scotland) on "The Language Movement in Scotland," in which Dr. Ross declared that they were not sitting helplessly or without hope, but were doing what they could to stem the great tide that was working against them.

A great injustice had been done to the people of the Highlands by the Scottish Education Act of 1872, which neglected Gaelic. When he went to school first he was floundering for a year or two. He was ten years of age before he could speak one grammatical sentence in English.

The injustice of treating Gaelic in that way was that it had the effect of killing the old language, the old songs, the old traditions and customs.

A little over 100 years ago there was a great deal of Puritan theology translated into the language of Scotland. The Puritans set their face against music and songs, and people began to believe that it was wrong to listen to Gaelic songs. That had a bad effect on Gaelic music and the language associated with that music.

By 1890 things reached a crisis, and certain far-seeing Gaels in Scotland realised that, if things went on as they had been going, their grand old heritage would disappear. An Comunn Gaidhealach was formed, and this was the chief agency they now had for the preservation of the Gaelic language.

An Comunn Gaidhealach had 107 branches at work, and the language was taught in all primary schools. There were over 10,000 persons studying Gaelic. Whitehall was willing to give them anything they liked in order to provide Highlanders with teachers to teach Gaelic in every school. It was possible to take the higher degree in Scotch Gaelic, and Scotch Gaelic was open in all Civil Service examinations with as many marks as were awarded in other branches of culture.

CONNECTIONS.

Mr. Sean Og O Ceallaigh (Ireland) said that, while there was a political connection, there was no national or social connection between the peoples of Scotland and England. The Scots were connected in every way with Ireland, and he could not see, if the Gaelicising movement went ahead in Scotland, as it had in Ireland, how a political connection could exist between Scotland and England No matter how favourable a Government at Whitehall was, the people of Scotland, once they became purely national, would not be satisfied to be governed from three hundred miles away by a completely English-speaking people. No country which considered itself a nation would be satisfied to remain under the sway of another nation.

A nation had four rights given it by God—the right to a country, to liberty, to a language, and to traditions. The attainment of these would require sacrifices on the part of the Scottish Gaels, such as were made by Pearse, Brugha and McSwiney. He urged the Scottish delegates to look to Ireland as much as possible, and avoid the pitfalls into which Ireland had fallen.

Dealing with President de Valera's offer on Monday, on behalf of the Free State Government, to subscribe to any scheme put forward by the Congress for Celtic research, Mr. O Ceallaigh suggested that the best course would be to form in Ireland a school of Celtic culture, working in conjunction with the school of Celtic studies at the National University, which would influence the outlook, of the man in the street.

Mr. Malcolm Maclean (Scotland) said that it was not possible to think in their generation of Scotland getting rid of England or England getting rid of Scotland. "I should feel happier," he remarked, "with a Government in London than with one of Scotsmen in the Lowlands. We have more sympathy from people in England than from the huge block of English-speaking people, who are as Celtic as we, but who, in tradition and outlook, are as far apart from us as the Poles.

THE POLITE COMPLEX.

Mr. Campbell (Scotland) denied that the Highlanders had any inferiority complex, but suggested that "excessive politeness" prevented them speaking their language if a person among them did not understand it.

Professor Cormac O Cadhla (Ireland) said that if all the members of An Comunn Gaidhealach were as enthusiastic as Dr. Ross and the other gentlemen who spoke on behalf of Scotland, it was not possible for them not to succeed in their efforts to extend the language movement in Scotland. The remarks made about the youth movement in Scotland were interesting. This was a matter which was causing a lot of anxiety in Ireland: nobody in Ireland under 30 years of age had any excuse for not being able to speak Irish.

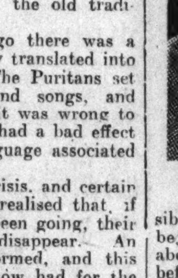

The solution of the problem was to keep the young people so that they would continue to speak Irish after leaving school. Clergymen in Scotland had done heroic work for Gaelic and for Gaelic tradition. Only for the Gaelic League, there would have been no compulsory Irish in the National University. It was the Gaelic League which made everything possible for the Irish language. The Gaelic League, being the only public association which was actively concerned with the revival and preservation of Irish, should have taken a more active part in the Celtic Congress.

The League should have asserted itself at the Congress, and let the public know what it did, what it was doing, and what it intended to do for the Irish language in this country.

Professor Agnes O'Farrelly, who presided, thanked Dr. Ross for his address. The problem in the Highlands, she said, was economic and social. The language was thinning out and was not as rich as it might be. She also dealt with the migration from Scotland, and referred to the very powerful and very wonderful Scotch group inhabiting the East coast of Canada.

YOUTH MOVEMENT.

Mrs. P. Kelly, vice-president and president-elect of "Aiglach Vannin" (Young Manx) read a paper on the movement, which started after the Celtic Congress in Douglas in 1931. The members of that organisation, she said, wanted, in their own way, to make the love of Manx things and Celtic things generally part of their everyday life, instead of something peculiar and only for the chosen few.

MR. G. CAMPBELL.

To acquire any real proficiency in Manx was a task far from easy, especially to people who were reared to speak another tongue and whose school days were ended. They had to admit that their Youth Movement had not much prospect of achieving any real advance in that direction. They were not, however, to be discouraged because they could not achieve the impossible; practicable people, as they claimed to be, would have to face facts, and the fact about the Manx tongue was that it was dead before the present generation were born.

Manx was such a limited language that it was not possible to use it under modern conditions of invention and progress. Their only hope of keeping the Manx language alive was to keep it pure and free from contamination. In that connection there was one part of their heritage that they need never lose, nor need any other Celtic nation—that was, their place names and personal names. It was generally admitted that it was the Celt himself who was the greatest offender, and who scoffed at the old ways and speech of a bygone age. She strongly felt that any real and living Celtic movement must depend for its success on an appeal to persons of ordinary or common intelligence, and not to a chosen or selected few.

INSPIRING INTEREST.

If, Mrs. Kelly continued, they were not able to inspire in their own common Celtic fold a real and a true interest in the things which belonged to their own race and to the glories of their own past, then they might count their labour in vain. No language and no national tradition had been maintained, or could ever hope to be maintained, through the sole agency of learned and antiquarian bodies. Their ideal was to absorb the past. To live in the present and to keep their eyes open, and looking forward and upward, should be their aim. Youth would have to live and progress, and it could not look backward. The most important things in life were individuality, courage, and progress.

Donn Piatt, proposing a vote of thanks, said that he was afraid that it would be impossible to revive Manx as a spoken language, but it was not impossible to learn it, and to save as much of it as could be saved. In Scotland he thought they were going too much on the cultural side, which would in no way compensate if the spoken language disappeared. There were 250,000 native speakers of Irish in Ireland, but they had not the advantages of money and influence, and, in most cases, of education. If they had these things the language would certainly be saved.

RACE AGAINST TIME.

The matter of saving the language was like a race against time. They, in Ireland, were too polite and quiet to stand up for themselves and their rights. (Laughter.) He said that it was regrettable that, unlike Wales, there was not a single newspaper in this country that was printed wholly in Irish. As things were, Irish-speaking people had to read all their local news in English, with the result that the language was decaying. No matter what political freedom they attained to, they would have nothing without their own language.

The Rev. Dr. Neill Ross, seconding the motion, said that other Celtic nations should do everything possible to help Manxmen to retain their individuality and nationality.

Miss Mona Douglas (I.O.M.) said she thought that the national salvation of her native land lay primarily in the hands of Manxmen themselves. They must get at the masses of the people, because it was unfortunately a fact that very little interest, generally speaking, was taken in the Manx tongue, or in Manx ideas. School teachers should encourage the study of Manx more than they did. They had no persecution in the Isle of Man, and she believed they would have more enthusiasm if they had had some persecution.

Mons. L. Le Roux (Brittany), speaking in Breton and English, said that the Bretons had nothing that inspired them to do anything whatever. All the institutions in their country were French, and when the Bretons faced these institutions it was like facing a wall which they could not break down. They could do nothing in their fight for the Breton language, because they had the whole weight of the French State against them.

Mr. Percy Kelly (I.O.M.) said that he thought it was one of the marvels of the age that the Manx tongue had been able, under such unfavourable conditions as existed there, to survive at all in any shape or form.

The vote of thanks to Mrs. Kelly was passed.

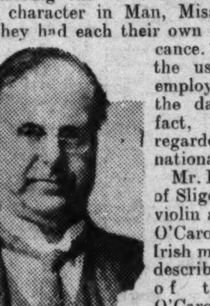

Professor Cormac O'Kiely presided.

EVENING SESSION.

Papers on folk music, with musical illustrations, were given by representatives of three of the Celtic countries at the session last night. Mrs. Ian Campbell (President of the Harp Society of Scotland) presided.

Miss Mona Douglas, speaking of Manx song and dance music, said that bards and general love of music existed in Man as well as Ireland and Scotland. Manx music was still vigorous to-day. The folk songs of Man, collected over the last hundred years, ranged over the whole gamut of human emotions. There were songs for all occasions, and the old Manx people sang as naturally as they talked.

Describing the various dances of a traditional character in Man, Miss Douglas said that they had each their own peculiar significance. The fiddle was the usual instrument employed to supply the dance music; in fact, it was now regarded as the Manx national instrument.

MR. H. FRANKLIN.

Mr. Henry Franklin, of Sligo, played on the violin a selection from O'Carolan, the blind Irish musician, who he described as the last of the bards. O'Carolan, he said, had an output of over 200 songs and airs, and thirty of them (it was said) had been used by Moore as airs for his "Melodies." After pointing out that O'Carolan's works were all in Gaelic, Mr. Franklin said that the great force which divided the works of one country from those of another were the national character, and when an Irish music came it would be distinctively Irish in character, although based on the music of the times.

Dealing with O'Carolan's life, Mr. Franklin said that he became totally blind at eighteen years of age, and was provided with a harp and a harper, to give him instruction. He made such rapid progress that in a short time he was able to travel on horseback and visit the houses of the leading county families, to whom he was always a welcome guest. In return for hospitality shown he often composed melodies, and named them in honour of his patrons.

Miss Williams, who dealt with Welsh music, complained that day by day the music of the negro and the Jew influenced their lives, and said that in the world of modern music the Celts were "nowhere." A people with no folk music was a people whose culture was already dead. As an example, they had only to turn to the United States, which she described as "a medley of peoples who had lost their individual nationalities and gained none."

GARDEN PARTY.

GUESTS OF MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.

YESTERDAY afternoon, amid glorious sunshine, a very enjoyable garden party was given by Mr. Justice Meredith and Mrs. Meredith in the charming grounds of the Zoological Gardens, Phœnix Park, Dublin, where 400 guests were present to meet members of the Celtic Congress. During the afternoon visitors were glad to sit under the cool shade of the many trees in the grounds. A delightful traditional programme of Irish music, including dancing, pipes, singing and harp-playing, added to the enjoyment of the guests.

Large picture hats were worn by most women to keep off the sun. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Meredith, who is in America with her youngest daughter, Mr. Justice Meredith (Chairman of the Congress Committee) received the guests with Mrs. Hugh Kennedy (Chairman of Hospitality Committee). Mrs. Kennedy looked elegant in a deep blue dress, with a deep blue hat relieved by a white band. Miss Agnes Farrelly came in a smart black and white ensemble. Mrs. Rowlette's pretty dress was of a mauve and pink floral design. Mrs. James McNeill was smart in a pale pink dress, worn with a large duck egg blue picture hat.

ALL REGIONALS: "The Charlot Hour," 9.15.
SCOTTISH REGIONAL: Brass Band Concert, 8.20.

THE Organ and Choral Recital which takes place to-night in Christ Church Cathedral, Waterford, will be relayed by Dublin, Athlone and Cork at 8. The programme includes some beautiful organ music and unaccompanied choruses. The chorus will also sing Stanford's "Te Deum Laudamus" and "Arise in Us," by Martin Shaw.

Wednesday programmes invariably include a good list of orchestral concerts. From Belfast the regular feature is the concert from the Museum at 3.30. To-day it has its usual substantial programme, under the direction of E. Godfrey Brown, the soloists being David McAlpin (baritone) and Gethyn Wykeham-George (violoncello). The other afternoon concert is also a regular fixture—that of the Bournemouth Municipal Orchestra, conducted by Sir Dan Godfrey. To-day the conducting will be shared by Ernest Austin, who will direct the performance of two of his own compositions. (Daventry and all Regionals, except Midland, 3.15.)

The music to be played by the B.B.C. Orchestra begins with Corelli's Concerto Grosso in G minor, in which the soloists are Arthur Catterall (violin) and Victor Hely-Hutchinson (pianoforte). Following Mozart's Symphony No. 40 in G minor, the orchestra will play movements chosen from the Suite of Strauss's incidental music to Molière's play—"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme." Warwick Braithwaite will conduct to-night. (Daventry, 9.40.)

A programme designed to stir happy memories of days spent camping on the countryside is entitled "The Roadside Fire." In this concert of songs of the open road Matthew Nisbet (bass-baritone) will sing a group by Vaughan Williams and others equally appropriate. The S.C.W.S. Prize Brass Band, conducted by George Hawkins, will carry out the rest of the programme, which maintains the same atmosphere throughout. (Scottish Regional, 8.20.)

YESTERDAY IN THE LAW COURTS.

SLIGO TOWN CLERKSHIP.

CORPORATION LOSES APPEAL.

COSTS ALSO TO BE BORNE.

(BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE, MR. JUSTICE FITZGIBBON AND MR. JUSTICE MURNAGHAN.)

Arguments were continued in the appeal in connection with the disputed Town Clerkship of Sligo.

The High Court, at the instance of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, issued a peremptory mandamus against the Sligo Corporation and twelve members, who had been made special defendants, directing them to appoint forthwith to the office of Town Clerk and Executive Sanitary Officer the candidate recommended to them by the Appointments Commissioners (Mr. Sean O hUigin, 1 Farnham street, Cavan), and ordering the special defendants to pay the costs of the entire proceedings rendered necessary by their failure to obey the Minister's order.

Against this the Corporation and the special defendants now appealed.

Their chief grounds, as outlined by counsel, were that the jurisdiction of the Appointments Commissioners covered only a period of six months from the date on which the offices became vacant, and that evidence at the trial showed that there had been an attempt on the part of members of the Order of the Knights of Columbanus to prejudice the chances of the candidate whom they favoured for the office (Mr. R. G. Bradshaw), and whom they had appointed temporarily to discharge the duties.

Mr. A. E. Wood, K.C., and Mr. D. MacFinnlaoich (instructed by Mr. S. H. Derham) appeared for the Corporation and the special defendants; and Mr. James Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. William Black (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) for the Minister for Local Government.

FUNCTIONS.

Resuming his argument that the functions of the Appointments Commissioners covered only a period of six months from the date of the occurrence of a vacancy with which they were concerned, Mr. Wood said that those functions were restricted to selection and recommendation, and that the right of the local authority to make the appointment was not abrogated. The Act establishing the Appointments Commissioners contemplated that six months was an ample period; if a permannet appointment was not made within that period on the recommendation of the Commissioners the local authority resumed the power to fill the office themselves.

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon said that Section 6 contemplated a temporary appointment for a period not exceeding six months, but it would cease if a permanent appointment was made at an earlier date. If everyone concerned did his duty and if there were no misconduct leading to unnecessary delay six months would be ample. But if a person were appointed temporarily for six months there was nothing to prevent another person being appointed temporarily for a further six months, if a permanent appointment were not made in the interval.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan said that a permanent appointment was made under the old statute. The 1926 Act simply superadded the condition that the Appointment Commissioners would have power of selection and recommendation.

Mr. Wood contended that the Commissioners' power ceased after the lapse of the six months' period.

SANCTION.

The former Town Clerk of Sligo, it was stated, resigned on November 2, 1932, giving one month's notice; he continued as Acting Town Clerk until April 19, 1933, when Mr. R. G. Bradshaw was appointed temporary Town Clerk; sanction to Mr. Bradshaw's temporary appointment was received from the L.G.D. on May 5, 1933, and on June 6, 1933, three names (Sean O hUigin, D. J. Harrington and Patrick Whooley) were sent to the Corporation by the Appointments Commissioners to be placed in the order of their preference.

The Chief Justice said that the Court had decided in another case that sanction dated backwards, so that Mr. Bradshaw was temporary Town Clerk as from April 19, 1933, to a date to be decided by other considerations.

Mr. Geoghegan said that a query form was sent to Mr. Bradshaw for completion in reference to his temporary appointment. Delay had been occasioned in the issue of the draft advertisement for the permanent position by the fact that Mr. Bradshaw's age was 47.

Mr. Wood contended that the Legislature contemplated the payment of a temporary official only for six months from the actual occurrence of the vacancy, which was here on December 2, being the date of the expiration of Mr. Shea's month's notice.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan said that, according to Mr. Wood's contention, the Corporation might have a name recommended to them within the prescribed six months, and by simply refusing to accept it until that period had elapsed make the Act inoperative.

A CANVASS.

Mr. Wood went on to say that from the very first there was a definite canvass against Mr. Bradshaw on religious grounds. In that canvass Councillor Jeremiah O'Connell, Canon O'Beirne and another clergyman, all officers of the Knights of Columbanus, had, according to the affidavits, taken part. Canon O'Beirne continued that canvass, even before the Minister for Local Government, whom he got to transmit a letter for him to Mr. Frank Fahy, Chairman of the Appointments Commissioners. The suggestion was made that, because Mr. Bradshaw was a Protestant, he should not be appointed to a key position.

The Chief Justice said that it struck him that something more must have been said against Mr. Bradshaw than the simple statement that he was a "professing Protestant." Otherwise what was the meaning of the expression "a terrible and awful fellow" alleged to have been used in respect of him?

Mr. Wood said that Mr. Bradshaw had been called an "atheist," but that term was applied to him only because he was a "Protestant." It was a false charge.

The Chief Justice said that Mr. Bradshaw had a grievance, in that charges were apparently made against him which he had had no opportunity of answering.

Closing his argument, Mr. Wood submitted that, whatever view the Court took of the case, it was not one in which they should give costs against the twelve special defendants (John Lynch, Michael Nevin, T. Kavanagh, P. Fowley, J. Kelly, W. Costello, J. McMorrow, J. Gilmartin, M. Kerrin, W. F. Browne, J. Hunt and J. Keaveny).

Mr. Geoghegan said that only eleven affidavits had been made, and that Mr. Fowley had not made any appearance.

Mr. Wood—I really thought I was supported by the "twelve apostles." (Laughter.)

MINISTER'S DUTY.

Mr. Geoghegan, replying, said that the Minister's duty was the simple one of seeing that Sligo got a Town Clerk. He made neither selection nor recommendation. But a recommendation had been made by the Appointments Commissioners, and no proceedings had been taken to have that set aside. It stood, as it had never been changed.

The Commissioners had wasted no time in discharging their duty. As early as November 30, 1932, they sent a draft advertisement to the Corporation, in which there was a condition that candidates for the permanent appointment should be between the ages of 21 and 45. The Corporation took exception to that, and, although under the statute the Commissioners, if so minded, could have settled the conditions themselves, they yielded to the representations of the Corporation and in an amended advertisement omitted the maximum age.

There was no evidence to support the suggestion that the Commissioners ever discriminated against any applicant because he professed any denominational form of Christianity. That would be a rotten and disgraceful suggestion that no decent person could possibly defend.

The Chief Justice asked counsel what he would say if there were evidence that suggestions had been made that a person should be excluded from consideration or deprived of a recommendation because of his religion.

Mr. Geoghegan replied that, if there were, the Minister would never ask the Court to enforce an order so obtained. But there was no evidence, or anything approaching evidence, that anything of the kind had been done, or that any attempt in that direction got the slightest countenance. Appointments would never be made if a busybody or a bigot sent letters, and they were to be held as disabling the authority charged with making the appointment from doing their duty.

The Chief Justice said that people often sent letters without expecting them to be acted upon.

A CLEFT STICK.

Mr. Geoghegan went on to say that there was a suggestion that the special defendants could not comply with the order made upon them, because they were threatened by the Minister on one side with a mandamus, and were threatened by Mr. Bradshaw on the other, as he was claiming to be legally the Town Clerk of Sligo. Except in a temporary capacity, the Sligo Corporation never purported to appoint Mr. Bradshaw.

But the claim seemed to be that, as the Appointments Commissioners did not operate effectively within six months, Mr. Bradshaw become permanent Town Clerk by virtue of his temporary appointment. There was always an interregnum between death and resignation on the one hand, and a permanent appointment on the other, unless in the case of a monarchy.

Chief Justice—It would be very hard on a host of applicants if there were not an interval.

Mr. Geoghegan said that he had been asked to request the Court to receive an affidavit made by Mr. Sean O hUigin. It was not filed in the High Court, and Mr. O hUigin was not a party to this case.

The Chief Justice said that he presumed that Mr. O hUigin wished to disclaim any connection with the Knights of Columbanus, but the affidavit could not be considered as part of the case. It might, perhaps, be made the subject of a statement later. The case of Mr. Bradshaw was different. He might lose his job, but, not being a party to the case, would have no opportunity to defend himself against the charges made against him.

NO SHIELD.

Mr. Geoghegan said that, unfortunately, the Minister could not shield Mr. Bradshaw from attacks. He might say, however, that the Minister sanctioned a change in the advertisement by the omission of a maximum age so as to permit Mr. Bradshaw to be a candidate for the Town Clerkship, and that would not have been done if the Minister thought he was not a fit person for a public appointment.

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon said that charges were made against Mr. Bradshaw admittedly for the purpose of preventing his candidature being considered by the Commissioners.

Mr. Geoghegan said that he was authorised to inform the Court that, if they wished, the papers relating to all the candidates would be placed before them.

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon remarked that they had no power to consider the papers. The question before the Court was whether anything had happened that was likely to bias or prejudice Mr. Bradshaw's candidature.

Mr. Geoghegan—The Minister is almost precisely in the same position. All he could do was to give Mr. Bradshaw his chance before the Selection Board and the Appointments Commissioners.

The Chief Justice said that there was the fact that a letter was conveyed through the Minister to the Chairman of the Commissioners.

Mr. Geoghegan replied that, according to the evidence, the letter was transmitted through the ordinary organisation of the office, and it might as well have been dropped into a letter-box. There was no evidence that the Minister lent any countenance to the letter or knew its contents. He might have surmised that the letter was on the same lines as those of the conversation Canon O'Beirne had had with him, but there was nothing to show that the Minister in any way signified his approval of it.

THE LETTER.

Chief Justice—Suppose the letter reached the Commissioners from the Minister, was not that an indication that it should be considered, unless the Minister sent a note with it saying "I have no responsibility for this"?

Mr. Geoghegan said that the presumption must be made that the Commissioners did their statutory duty independently and without bias. There was no evidence that the Commissioners were influenced in any way and they could not save themselves from letters.

Chief Justice—As the letter was presumably a request that the Commissioners should not recommend Bradshaw, a further presumption is that they were to get it before they interviewed candidates.

Mr. Geoghegan said that he did not think that that was so. The view in Sligo was that there could be a re-shuffle, a new deal of the cards, at any time. That was shown by the deputation going to see Mr. de Valera on July 13th, 1933, long after the selection by the Commissioners. Canon O'Beirne's interview with the Minister might have been held because he was under the wrong impression—that the Minister could intervene at any time.

The Chief Justice said that the Minister could not very well refuse to grant an interview to Canon O'Beirne, and it was only human that, if asked to oblige, he forwarded a letter for the Canon. But the gravamen of the affair was that the Canon, holding the view attributed to him on some of the affidavits, used the Minister as a channel for the transmission of the letter.

STILL EXISTS.

Mr. Geoghegan continued that the recommendation of the Appointments Commissioners was still in existence. The Minister had no power to make a fresh recommendation, and the Sligo Corporation could not ask him to do so. The High Court, in granting the peremptory mandamus to appoint Mr. Sean O hUigin, had already exercised discretion, and unless the Supreme Court found some very coercive reason they should not exercise discretion in a different way.

Mr. Black, following on the same side, said that it would be deplorable if, as a result of the affidavits made in this case, the impression were to go abroad that the Minister or the Appointments Commissioners would, directly or indirectly, act on the lines suggested in statements attributed to Councillor Jeremiah O'Connell and others. Rightly or wrongly, Councillor O'Connell was alleged to be the provincial head of an order of chivalry in the West of Ireland—(laughter)—but he was credited with sentiments involving sectarianism and religious persecution, which were absolutely alien to the feelings of the great mass of the Irish people.

Neither the Minister nor the Commissioners would approve, shield, or tolerate such sentiments, and prima facie it should be assumed that they would not allow themselves to be influenced in any way by bias or defamation. Some people might like to have it known that they could see Ministers and get them to oblige them in such a way as this. But there was no ground for imputing to the Minister a desire to use improper influence. It had not been proved that the letter sent through him was received or read by the Commissioners.

AN AFFIDAVIT.

The Chief Justice said that there was a statement in an affidavit by Alderman John Lynch, and it did not appear to have been contradicted, that the Minister received a letter from Canon O'Beirne, and that this letter was received by Mr Frank Fahy, the Chairman of the Commissioners.

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon said that it was not denied by the Minister, and it was asking a great deal—even from a Court—to ask them to believe that a letter coming through a Minister was thrown unopened into a waste-paper basket.

Mr. Wood, in reply, said that the Minister, a member of the Executive Council, which had the power of dismissing the Appointment Commissioners, sent a letter to the Chairman of the Commissioners to oblige Canon O'Beirne. No doubt the Minister did that innocently. But could it be said that, having got a letter containing Canon O'Beirne's views through such a channel, the Commissioners could adjudicate free from all suspicion of bias?

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon said that as anyone could write to the Commissioners about an appointment, the only way in which this letter would be improper would be if the Minister endorsed its contents.

JUDGMENT.

Delivering the unanimous judgment of the Court dismissing the appeal and confirming the peremptory mandamus directing the appointment of Mr. Sean O hUigin as Town Clerk, the Chief Justice said that the case dealt with matters of very considerable public importance. If there had been evidence that the Minister for Local Government had adopted the letter of Canon O'Beirne, and, with all the authority of a member of the Executive Council, had asked the Commissioners to consider the letter seriously, there would have been a very strong case why that Court could direct that the mandamus should not issue.

But, in the absence of any such evidence, he could not see how the Court could refuse to issue an order that the Sligo Corporation should comply with its obvious duty and appoint the person recommended by the Commissioners. Under the law as it stood, the Commissioners could inquire into the character as well as the qualifications of candidates, and it was not suggested that Mr. Bradshaw's qualifications were so outstanding that the letter alone prevented the inclusion of his name in the list of candidates recommended.

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon said that there was uncontradicted evidence that the influence of the Knights of Columbanus was thrown into the scale against the candidature of Mr. Bradshaw by way of canvassing members of the Sligo Corporation. But in that direction the canvassing against Mr. Bradshaw was eminently unsuccessful. Then the Court were asked to hold that the same influence was brought to bear on the appointment-making machinery.

There was no evidence, he continued, that any member of the Appointments Commission or of the Selection Board belonged to the Order. The very names of the Selection Board were unknown, and no grounds had been submitted to the Court which would entitle them to refuse to the Minister the mandamus for which he asked.

TO PAY COSTS.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan said that if the statutory action of the Appointments Commissioners was to be challenged it could only be done through proceedings to which they were made a party. If Mr. Bradshaw could establish that the Appointments Commissioners or the Selection Board had acted illegally in connection with his candidature he might possibly have some remedy, but, in the circumstances, he could not challenge the action of the Commissioners.

As regarded the letter handed to the Minister by Canon O'Beirne, the only evidence was that the Minister "forwarded" or "transmitted" it after having made it clear to Canon O'Beirne that he had nothing to do with the matter. The letter was not forwarded in any way that would indicate his personal approval of the presumed contents.

The Court directed that the Sligo Corporation should pay the costs of the appeal to the Supreme Court, and that each party to the proceedings in the High Court should pay his own costs.

Mr. Geoghegan mentioned that an affidavit had been made by Mr. O hUigin to the effect that he was not and never had been a member of the Order of the Knights of Columbanus.

FIFTH DAY OF HUGHES CASE.

A QUESTION OF CONVICTION.

JUDGES AND TRIAL RECORDS.

Yesterday was the fifth day of the hearing of arguments in the application of Captain Patrick Hughes, proprietor of the Midland Hotel, Upper Dominick street, Dublin, who seeks an order to make absolute a conditional order of habeas corpus and certiorari to have quashed a conviction and sentence of two years' imprisonment imposed on him by the Constitution (Special Powers) Tribunal for having, as alleged, sought to bribe Detective Officer McNamara to procure for him, or to disclose to him, confidential information relating to Government policy or to activities against the League of Youth.

Captain Hughes has denied all the charges preferred against him, and submits, as grounds for his release, that there were various irregularities in his trial. Chief among those were that the conviction by the Tribunal, which has been held to be an "inferior court," did not specify jurisdiction on its face, and that the certificate of an Executive Minister or the consent of the Attorney-General to his trial on specified charges under the Official Secrets Act and the Prevention of Corruption Act were not properly proved at the trial. He also submits that the conviction and sentence are void, because they did not specify the particular charges on which he was convicted and sentenced.

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., Mr. A. K. Overend, K.C., Mr. C. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. P. McGilligan (instructed by Mr. P. F. O'Reilly) appeared for Captain Hughes; and the Attorney-General (Mr. C. Maguire, K.C.), Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., Mr. James Geoghegan, K.C., Mr. Gavan Duffy, K.C., Mr. P. J. McEnery and Mr. Kevin Haugh (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) for the Attorney-General.

ARGUMENTS RESUMED.

Resuming his argument in support of the jurisdiction of the Constitution (Special Powers) Tribunal, the Attorney-General said that the words of the Statute which set up the Tribunal came to his aid by reason of the provisions of Section 7, Sub-Section 4, and the other Sections, to prevent the raising of technical points, regarding the jurisdiction. Further, he submitted that a Court might be an "inferior" Court for one purpose and a "superior" Court for another purpose. The legislation setting up the Tribunal was of a very special character, and the effect of the conviction in the present case put it in a position different from that in the O'Duffy case.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne asked did not the Court, in the case of Martin v. Mahony, which had been cited, inquire with great care into the whole history of this legislation, and the effect of the legislation on questions such as those arising in the present case; and was it not laid down that the presence of a no certiorari clause did not protect when a conviction was bad on its face? When a Court considered a conviction, had it not to consider whether the Tribunal had jurisdiction? The conviction of the accused person here on charges: 1 (corruptly offering or agreeing to give consideration to an agent, contrary to Section 1 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1906); 2 (soliciting, counselling, or attempting to procure Timothy McNamara to commit an offence under Section 2 of the Official Secrets Act, 1911); and 3 (similar) did not show that the Tribunal had any jurisdiction whatever to enter upon an inquiry.

Attorney-General—That is one of the issues. I submitted that the reference at the head of the order to Article 2a shows that the charges were being brought under Article 2a.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—However the charges were brought, or under what legislation, is not it a common case that there was no jurisdiction in the Tribunal to try charges 1, 2, and 3 unless a certificate was given by an Executive Minister? and the conviction does not anywhere show that any such certificate had been given.

Attorney-General—Except by implication.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne asked was the Attorney-General suggesting that the document which had been put in evidence as the record of conviction was not in itself the conviction.

Attorney-General—My friend's submission is that this document is really a warrant.

ASKED FOR RECORD.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that at a very early stage of the case he asked for the original record of conviction, and a document was given to him which was in identical terms with the document that was served upon the prosecutor here as being a record of the conviction. Was that document a record of the conviction or was it not?

Attorney-General—I understand my friends to submit that that document was not, in terms, a conviction.

If, he continued, it was going to be suggested that there was no proper order of conviction before the Court, he was entitled to show that the Tribunal did, in fact, convict, and, if the document was to be considered a warrant, it embodied the conviction.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne asked was it to be contended that the Tribunal, sitting they did not know where, and the accused person did not know where, was to deliver a verbal judgment and sentence in the absence of an accused person or his advisers?

The Attorney-General said that all he was submitting was that the document before the Court referred to the fact that the Tribunal had arrived at a conclusion and finding, and, if the document was to be regarded merely as a warrant, he was entitled to show that the judgment embodied in it was a record of the conviction. That was something that could be shown upon the return.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Well, it has not been shown up to the present.

Attorney-General—Everything has been open to the other side. They got documents, even, that they were not entitled to.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—It is because of that that I am so amazed.

Mr. Justice Meredith said that he did not see any record of conviction at all. What seemed to have been done was that the members of the Tribunal probably met together and talked the matter over, and a warrant was issued. They thought the matter over, came to a decision, and, for all he knew, sent the decision over the telephone.

Attorney-General—I am submitting that the order is good as a conviction and contains a conviction.

THE DOCUMENT.

Mr. Justice Meredith—It is a document that certainly looks more like a record, and I cannot see how you can get out of it.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that there was no suggestion anywhere that, apart from that document, there was anything in the nature of a conviction.

Attorney-General—Except in the document itself.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—If this document is a warrant, I call on you to produce a conviction. What document is to be given to us as the conviction if you admit that this is only a warrant?

The Attorney-General said that he understood that they were entitled to rely on the law as regards proceedings before magistrates before the Petty Sessions Act and the position was laid down that a verbal conviction would be good.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—If there was a verbal conviction, why was not it stated before the fifth day of the hearing? And, also, where is it shown in the affidavits? It is not suggested in any of the affidavits filed of the case.

The Attorney-General said that at the opening of the case the argument was presented that this document was only a warrant, and referred to a conviction. There was nothing more in existence than that document.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—If this document is only a warrant, then there is, in fact, no conviction.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—In the absence of evidence are we to assume that there was a conviction?

The Attorney-General said that the facts were as fully before the Court as they could be in any other affidavits. Regarding the position taken up by the prosecutors here, they called it a conviction, and he did not think they were entitled now to make the case which they were making.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—If it is only a warrant then there is no conviction. The Tribunal has not shown that there was any conviction recorded, so far as the affidavits are concerned.

The Attorney-General said that if they were in the position of magistrates the order might be a verbal order. It seemed to him that the document in question said that the man was found guilty.

A DIFFICULTY.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—This is a difficulty of evidence, not of argument, and it seems that there is no evidence.

The Attorney-General—Is not there evidence on the face of this document?

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Do you suggest that you are to rely on some kind of implication in a document in the absence of all evidence proving it?

The Attorney-General submitted that the Tribunal, under a sealed order, found the man guilty.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Our jurisdiction is to inquire into a case of detention, and order the release of the person unless satisfied that he is legally detained in accordance with the law. Do you suggest, under a constitution such as that, that the Court is to refuse to order the release of a person who applies for habeas corpus, on the ground that there may have been some oral conviction, there being no evidence of it?

The Attorney-General suggested that the regular formalities were carried out.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Can you point to oral evidence of a conviction; there are several affidavits? I ask you to point anywhere in any of the affidavits to evidence of an oral conviction.

In his concluding remarks, the Attorney-General suggested that this was a case in which the applicant had, by his own conduct, precluded himself from adopting his present attitude. Even in certiorari the Court was entitled to consider the conduct of an applicant, and, in its discretion, to decline to give him the relief sought. The wording of the charges before the Tribunal were the same as those eventually embodied in the warrant, or order, or conviction now before the Court. Throughout the trial there was no objection to the form of the charges, and no suggestion that the accused person was not aware of the case that was being made against him. There was no new charge made at any time.

NO OBJECTION AT TRIAL.

The objection to the absence of the certificate stood in the same position. The prisoner allowed the trial to proceed, and it was too late for him now to try to invalidate the proceedings which were had before the Tribunal.

On all these grounds the Attorney-General submitted that the cause shown should be allowed, and the order of habeas corpus or certiorari should not go. In a final word he condemned the attacks that had been made on the Tribunal, and said that they were not justified.

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., who followed on the same side, also resented the attacks on the Tribunal, and said that after many years' experience of most Courts he had never known any Court to approach its duties more conscientiously and with a greater sense of anxiety and care to do what was right. With regard to the arguments brought forward at the present hearing in the High Court, he submitted that the objections made on the other side were of the most technical kind, and without any substance whatever.

In reply to Mr. Justice Meredith, Mr. Maguire said that his contention was that technicalities in this respect meant everything except, of course, where natural justice was offended, or where a substantial question of jurisdiction was properly raised.

AMENDING ORDER.

Dealing with the amending of an order for the purpose of curing what on the face of it was a mere informality, Mr. Maguire cited cases for the purpose of showing that an inferior Court had power to correct what he submitted was a technicality, and said that, assuming that the Court held that there was a defect in this order, from the point of view of failing to recite a certificate, the Court ought not to interfere, by granting an order for certiorari, with this law staring them in the face, that it was not merely the privilege, but the duty of an inferior Court to amend the order by making it clear.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said that this was a new argument—that the Tribunal should have an opportunity to make a bad order good. What was to happen in respect of imprisonment in the meanwhile was another matter, and whether there had not been illegal imprisonment before the new order was made.

Did Mr. Maguire's argument, he asked, involve that this Tribunal, although not bound by the statute which affects the jurisdiction of magistrates, was to be in the position of a magistrate who could amend an order so as to make it a regular form of order, so long as it was consistent with truth?

Mr. Maguire said that he was submitting this contention upon the basis of an admission for the purpose of argument and no further, that the order was bad, and he was submitting that the Tribunal should be in the position of at least a magistrate.

In reply to Mr. Justice Sullivan, Mr. Maguire said that he did not suggest that a conviction which was bad on its face could not be quashed by a writ of certiorari.

Mr. Maguire had not concluded his argument when the Court adjourned until to-day.

IRISH FISHERIES INJUNCTION.

SLIGO TIDAL WATERS.

(BEFORE MR JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

An application for an interim injunction was made by Mr. Phelps, K.C., with whom was Mr. Paul McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. Felton and Lyons), on behalf of Edward Francis Patrick Cooper, owner of the Ballisodare Salmon Fishery, the defendants named being the Attorney-General and John Boyd, Matthew McGowan, John Uncles, Screen, Co. Sligo, and Joseph Hegarty, Farnon Kelly and Patrick Hegarty, Dromore West, Co. Sligo.

Mr. Phelps said that his application was urgent, as the fishermen defendants persisted in fishing in the tidal waters of Ballisodare without permission, and were doing considerable damage to the fishery. He read the affidavit of Mr. A. M. Lyons, solicitor, which set out that the plaintiff owned the salmon fishing rights in the lakes and rivers of Owenmore and Arrow and also within the Bay of Ballisodare. At present the fishing on the Arrow River above the falls of Ballisodare was let to Captain P. D. Percival, who had made complaints about the scarcity of salmon, caused, Mr. Lyons believed, by the salmon being netted by the defendants. If the defendants were not restrained, other persons, he feared, would invade the fishery, and great destruction of salmon would ensue, which would result in very serious damage to the breeding stock of the rivers and the future available stock of marketable fish.

Counsel also read the affidavit of Frederick Scott, Ballisodare, water bailiff, which set out that the plaintiff worked the fishery in the tidal waters by means of boats and drift nets, and the yearly outgoings of the fishery, all of which were paid in Ballisodare amounted to over £900. The plaintiff also paid £250 to the Sligo Board of Conservators. The approximate number of salmon caught during the last four years was:—

1931	7,670
1932	5,850
1933	5,856

The affidavit went on to say that Mr. Scott on June 26 saw two boats fishing in Ballisodare Bay within the tidal waters. He went there, and in one boat saw John Boyd, Mat McGowan and John Uncles. There were nets in the boat, but no salmon. In the other boat were the two Hegartys and Kelly, and Joseph Hegarty said he had got the advice of a solicitor and intended to continue fishing.

Mr. Justice Johnston granted an interim injunction prohibiting the defendants from fishing in the waters referred to until next Monday week, when a motion for an interlocutory injunction will come before the Court. He gave the plaintiff liberty to notify the defendants of the injunction by telegram.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

A relatively lively morning session was witnessed on the Stock Exchange to-day and the undertone displayed firmness. The resultant advances were affected to some extent by late profit-taking, but the general list, nevertheless, contrived to finish anything up to two dollars higher. The turnover was larger at 650,000 shares.

The market turned dull in the afternoon, but most of the previous gains were well maintained.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

Bullish foreign crop news, limited offerings and an improved outside interest created a firm and active Grain market to-day. The strength of stocks and cotton sympathetically affected the sentiment of the market, and there was considerable evening up prior to the issue of the Government report to-morrow. On the wheat market some moderate "hedge" selling was offset by purchasing by commission houses and by short covering, while the expectation of a bullish Government report, combined with a forecast of warmer weather in the North-West, encouraged buying by Eastern houses. There was some purchasing by professional operators against sales of wheat on the maize market. Reports of increased damage to the crop and indications that the market was in an over-sold condition caused an advance. Rye moved in sympathy with wheat. On the oats market there was some buying by local interests, and prices then moved in unison with maize.

Have you put his name down?

Nowadays, if you desire your child to go to a Public School you must put his name down early. Some schools have a waiting list eight or ten years ahead.

You may have put your boy's name down but not have made definite provision for payment of the necessary fees.

Or it may be you have refrained because you foresee financial difficulties.

In either case a Prudential Educational Policy, taken out now, will solve your problem. For a comparatively small yearly outlay—on which income tax rebate may be allowed—you can ensure the payment of say,

£100 a year for four years

when your child reaches the school age.

If anything should happen to you the money for his education will still be available.

Under the powers conferred by Section 2 of the Tariff Commission (Amendment) Act, 1930 (No. 31 of 1930), the Executive Council have referred to the Tariff Commission for consideration and report the question of the desirability of imposing a Customs Duty on CASKS AND BARRELS, NEW AND SECONDHAND AND COMPONENT PARTS THEREOF, OTHER THAN CASKS, KEGS AND BARRELS FOR CONTAINING BUTTER, AND COMPONENT PARTS OF SUCH CONTAINERS, imported into Saorstat Eireann.
An inquiry into this question will be held by the Commission in due course, and at such inquiry the Commission will hear every person who desires so to be heard and who appears to the Commission to be substantially representative of persons, trades or interests who would or might reasonably be expected to be affected by the imposition of a Customs duty on Casks and Barrels, or by the non-imposition of such a duty.

The public sittings for the taking of oral evidence will probably be held in the month of September. Notice of such sittings will be published in due course.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—An anti-cyclone over the North Sea is decreasing in intensity. A shallow depression is situated over France, and a deeper depression out in the Atlantic is likely to extend its influence eastwards. Weather is still likely to continue mainly fine or fair, but may become less settled in the West, with a thundery tendency.

North-West Ireland.—Light or moderate southerly wind; fair at first; perhaps rain later; warm inland.

North-East, South-East and South-West Ireland.—Light south-east or variable wind; mainly fair, but, perhaps, local thunder; very warm.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Light south-east or variable wind; mainly fair; sea slight.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

The Celtic Congress meeting in Dublin yesterday debated various efforts being made in Ireland, Scotland, Wales, the Isle of Man, and Brittany to preserve the various Celtic languages.—(Page 4.)

The Supreme Court yesterday dismissed the appeal of the Sligo Corporation and special defendants against a High Court decision already made against them in connection with the Sligo Town Clerkship dispute.—(Page 5.)

In the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, an interim injunction was granted against a number of County Sligo fishermen, who, it was alleged in affidavits of several interested persons, were continually taking salmon from tidal waters at Ballisodare.—(Page 5.)

Fianna Fail nominees were elected as chairmen at 15 of the 23 Free State County Councils which met yesterday.—(Pages 7 and 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the course of a debate on the Government's shipping policy, Mr. Runciman last night told the House of Commons that if, during the recess, a scheme satisfactory to the Government was produced by the tramp steamship owners, the necessary legislation to enable the subsidy payments to be made would be one of the first tasks to which the House would be asked to devote its time after the recess.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Nottingham yesterday Playful won the Dukeries Foal Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Edinburgh yesterday Sankate won the Edinburgh Summer Handicap.—(Page 10.)

At Salisbury yesterday Alcazar won the Norman Court Stakes.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were irregular. The rise in British Funds and Rails continued, and Rubber shares were strong.—(Page 3.)

June 30.

Ten days now have passed since Herr Hitler and General Goering horrified the world by their so-called "cleansing process" in Germany. Nobody either in Germany or anywhere else knows yet how many persons were shot by General Goering's black-shirted Praetorians; for the Government has refused to publish an official list of the victims. The names of the dead leaders, of course, have been disclosed. Roehm, Heines, Ernst, and half-a-dozen other chiefs of the Sturmabteilungen, whose moral delinquencies had been notorious in Germany for years were shot out of hand. General von Schleicher, von Bose, von Kahr, Klausener, and several others, who had no connection of any kind with the Brown Shirts, also were "executed"; but it is certain that a large number of smaller fry was placed against the wall at Lichterfelde and other places. Until the list has been published—if, indeed, it ever is published—the full extent of the Hitler-Goering purge must remain largely a matter of conjecture. In a speech which was broadcast from all the German stations last evening, Dr. Goebbels, the Minister for Propaganda, who accompanied Herr Hitler on his fateful journey to Wiessee, declared that the German Government had not hidden anything. It had told the world the whole truth about the events of June 30, because it had nothing to hide. Yet, strangely enough, Dr. Goebbels made no reference to the list of names for which everybody in Germany, and all over the world, is waiting. He carefully side-tracked the question by rhetorical attacks on the "slop-pail of lies" which had appeared in the foreign newspapers, and spoke of the attitude of the world Press as "a delirium of malicious provocation and hysterical abuse."

Why will the German Government not publish the names of its victims? Nothing could be more harmful to the country's reputation than the uncertainty that has been caused by Herr Hitler's silence. Take a single instance. It was reported last week that a priest named Father Mühler had been shot in Bavaria. There have been semi-official denials; yet the rumour has persisted and, taken in conjunction with the murder of Herr Klausener, leader of the Catholic Action movement in Berlin, the mere suggestion that a priest has been killed is bound to do enormous damage to Germany in every civilised land. All doubts could be put at rest by the official publication of the full list of those who have been shot. Wild rumours would be stopped. At least a simulacrum of legality would be given to the "executions," and thousands of anxious relatives in Germany would be spared needless pain. Can it be possible that the "cleansing process" is not yet at an end? General Goering announced more than a week ago that no further "executions" would take place; but, in spite of this assurance, those who do not see eye to eye with the Hitler Administration are walking in dread of their lives. Furthermore, no details have been published concerning the alleged "plot" in which men of such widely differing views as Roehm and von Kahr, Ernst and Klausener are supposed to have been implicated. Ernst, who a few weeks ago was the idol of the Berlin mob, was dragged from a ship in Bremen en route to Madeira, where he proposed to spend a holiday. His rôle in the conspiracy cannot have been very important; yet he was shot like a dog, and Germany owes it to herself to reveal the facts about a plot which was of such gravity as to justify a massacre that hardly has been paralleled since St. Bartholomew's Day.

Everybody who knows them must sympathise deeply with the German people. The vast majority of the Reich's sixty-five million inhabitants is composed of decent, peace-loving people, whose main desire in life is to be left alone, and to be given a chance to work for their children's welfare. They have suffered grievously since the war. First one leader, then another, has undertaken to lead them into the promised land, and they always have been disappointed. If the other nations of Europe had shown any sign of sincerity in regard to disarmament, we believe firmly that the Hitlers, the Goerings and the Goebbels never would have arisen from the obscurity of Biergarten politics; but the German people were driven to despair. The world now must be patient with Germany. Another of her illusions has been shattered. The much vaunted unity of the Nazi movement was shattered to bits by the revolvers of Hermann Goering's condottieri on the night of June 30, and, however much Dr. Goebbels and Herr Hess may boast of the people's continued belief in Herr Hitler, the pretence has been exposed to the world. The Nazi dictatorship rests on force, and on force alone. Millions of cultured and patriotic Germans never liked it. At the best, they regarded it as a pis aller, preferring any kind of nationalist dictatorship to Communism, which at one time seemed to be the only alternative. During the last two years these people have been disgusted by the conduct of men like Roehm and Heines—and, if the truth be told, they have not been exactly enamoured of General Goering—but they have not dared to utter a word. Now Roehm and Heines have gone; but Goering remains, the real ruler of Germany. Herr Hitler is well-meaning and sincere. Like Frankenstein, however, he has created a monster which he cannot control; and the end is not yet.

Irish Music.

Three times in less than a week we have had occasion to print news concerning one aspect or another of Irish traditional music. Last Friday a special correspondent foretold a possible revival of interest in the clarsach, or Irish harp; yesterday we reported Professor Robert O'Dwyer's speech before the Dublin Rotary Club on the music of ancient Ireland; and to-day we summarise Mr. Henry Franklin's address to the Celtic Congress on Turlogh O'Carolan. Perhaps, the concurrence of these three items implies a new awakening of the public conscience to an art which reached so high a level here in the past, and bore such lasting and excellent fruit. We have not been kind to the music of our ancestors. Ireland is dowered to-day with a wealth of lovely tunes, but, by all accounts, what she has is nothing to what she has lost; and, if it had not been for the labours of two or three assiduous collectors and scholars within the last century and a half, all but a very few tunes would have perished. To-day, fortunately, it is difficult for a tune to perish from the earth; where the collector of music formerly possessed nothing but his ear and a sheet of paper, he is equipped now with recording apparatus, and not a few fine airs from remote corners of Ireland have been captured and enshrined within the past ten years. Music, however, is not for scholars, but for the people; and, if the people of Ireland have no interest in their own music, it might as well never have been recovered. Our cities know little or nothing of the nation's heritage. Even in the country districts, where traditional things linger when they have fled from the cities, Irish music is becoming increasingly rare, and either jazz ditties or the sentimental ballads of the last generation are displacing the old songs. Is it not Mr. Padraic Colum who writes of the horror that he experienced when, having requested a boy in the back of beyond to sing an Irish song for him, the lad responded with "Killarney"? That was more than ten years ago; to-day such an invitation would be answered, if not with "Killarney" or "Mother Machree," at any rate with "The Rose of Tralee," or something of the sort. Yet, while we are sorry to see the people forget their old music, we must recognise that the thing maligned or applauded as "progress" exists. The genuine efforts of successive Free State Governments to revive interest in Irish traditional music by means of the Dublin and Athlone broadcasting stations have not worked, for the very good reason that this age demands music, on the one hand, more simple, and, on the other hand, more complex. If most of our people want "Mother Machree," there is the more critical element which would see a new, more elaborate and more "sophisticated" Irish music built upon the basis of the old. Some day, perhaps, musicians will arise to accomplish for Irish music what Borodin and Rimsky-Korsakov and their contemporaries did for the folk-music of Russia; and they will find even more splendid foundations for their work.

The Third Test.

After its early excitements, the third Test match flickered out yesterday as tamely as a game between Yorkshire and Lancashire. If the English players had held their catches they might have forced a win, but, as it is, there can be no decision on the series of matches before the last is played to a finish at the Oval. The match at Old Trafford, while it will not go down in memory among the unlearned public which pays its shillings at the gate—since the ordinary man has little love for a drawn game, however productive of runs and curious analyses—will furnish pretty material for those who pass their lives as research students of cricket. England's huge score in the first innings is enough in itself to secure the prolonged study of enthusiasts in many winter evenings to come, but the match has other features of some interest. The conduct of Hendren, who scored an admirable century at a crisis, and later failed to take an easy catch from Mr. Woodfull—with the result that the reprieved Australian went on to make seventy-three runs, and, probably, to save his side from defeat—is an agreeable example of the ups and downs of an uncertain game. To-day, doubtless, the Middlesex club will decide whether Hendren's portrait in the pavilion shall be garlanded with laurels or hung with crêpe. Yet great totals of runs have been scored in the past, and easy catches have been dropped. If this Test match has a new claim to pass into history it must be based upon the unwelcome appearance of an enigmatic scourge which laid low several of the Australian players. The malady is caused, it seems, by a germ of a variety unknown to science, and, to the chagrin of all good cricketers, a second-hand germ at that. It comes from Wimbledon, and it appears to be characterised by the regrettable laxity of manners which prevails in the younger game. That cricket should be obliged to entertain the bacteria of lawn tennis is bad enough, but that the germ should attack one side only is utterly repugnant to the old Hambledon spirit. It may be patriotism, but it is not cricket.

Poteen.

The manufacture of poteen seems to be still one of the country's flourishing industries. It is not confined to the Free State. At the opening of the County Antrim Summer Assizes in Belfast yesterday, the Lord Chief Justice alluded to the fact that a certain amount of illicit distillation persists in the Toome district, in the neighbourhood of Lough Neagh. Few cases of poteen-making, either in the Saorstát or in Northern Ireland, have been reported for some time past, but it is not safe to conclude that the traffic has been suppressed. Probably the manufacturers, hounded from pillar to post by the increasing vigilance of the police, have acquired new ingenuity, and have discovered new means to frustrate their pursuers. The most, we fear, that can be expected from the police is that they shall keep the traffic within its present limits. They cannot hope to eradicate it so long as the impulse to obtain cheap and potent liquor remains, and so long as the traffickers retain the sympathy of their neighbours. The police have no evidence but their own; for poteen-making, unluckily, is one of those offences on which no member of the public would dream of giving evidence—indeed, the people of the poteen areas prefer to throw every possible difficulty in the way of the authorities. It is a noxious trade, which has caused many deaths and much moral and physical degeneration in some areas; but it is bound to find customers, and those customers will not tell. Let us rather congratulate ourselves that the trade has been confined within narrow boundaries by the assiduity of the police, than complain because it has not been eradicated.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The chief event of the Royal visit in Edinburgh, the Drawingroom, was held by Their Majesties yesterday afternoon at the Palace of Holyroodhouse, and proved a most brilliant function.

A great reception is being prepared to welcome Their Majesties when they visit Lancashire next week. In addition to opening the new Mersey Tunnel, the new East Lancashire Arterial road and the Manchester Central Library, the King will perform several other ceremonies, and will be presented with various addresses.

The Prince of Wales paid his promised visits to Coventry and Nuneaton yesterday, and had a very gratifying welcome. His Royal Highness has presented to the Royal United Service Museum, Whitehall, the uniform caps worn by the late Field-Marshal Earl Haig and Marshal Foch. They are now included in the collection which contains the headgear of Nelson, Wellington, Picton and Wolseley.

There was a very large attendance at the annual meeting of the Incorporated Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society, at which the Duke of Connaught presided, yesterday at the Caxton Hall. Prince Arthur of Connaught attended the Searchlight Tattoo at Woolwich last night.

Princess Alice and the Earl of Athlone attended the annual commemoration of the foundation of the Princess Mary's Village Homes at Addlestone yesterday, and Her Royal Highness presented the prizes to the successful competitors.

Princess Alice and Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught were among the numerous guests at the tennis party at West Hill, Highgate, in which many of the Wimbledon champions took part. The programme included an American tournament. Sir A. and Lady Crosfield, who lent their grounds, received the guests.

The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire will be in residence at Bolton Abbey, Yorkshire, next month, and will entertain a large party for the grouse shooting. Susan Duchess of Somerset will leave London to-day for Red Castle, Ross-shire, where she will spend the next three months. UNIVERSITY REPRESENTATION.

GOVERNMENT'S ACTION PRAISED.

At a meeting of the Trinity College Fianna Fáil Cumann, held last night, the following resolution was passed unanimously:—

"That this Cumann congratulates the Government on its action in having abolished University representation—it being a form of separate representation which the Cumann regards as undemocratic and unnecessary, and as having belied the arguments originally advanced for its creation."

CORPORATION AND HOUSING.

£50,000 LOAN SOUGHT.

The Dublin Corporation last night, at a special meeting, decided to apply to the Minister for Local Government for a loan of £50,000 for the purpose of making advances to borrowers under the Small Dwellings Act. Alderman Dr. Myles Keogh presided, in the absence of the Lord Mayor.

A report from the General Purposes Committee, recommending the loan, was read.

Councillor David Coyle moved the adoption of the report, and it was seconded by Mr. Belton T.D.

Councillor T. Kelly, T.D., opposed the motion. He said that the main defect of the Small Dwellings Acquisition Act was that it compelled the Corporation to go into the open market for money. He argued that money was being subscribed to finance the building of houses costing from £600 to £1,000, whereas that money ought to be devoted towards schemes for the housing of the poorer sections of the community.

Councillor P. S. Doyle, T.D., mentioned the progress made by the Public Utility Societies in the building of houses, and for people who would not otherwise be helped.

Councillor M. O'Sullivan, supporting the motion, said that a large number of building operatives were engaged in private building. The middle classes seemed to be nobody's children.

Councillor Coyle said that the high ground rents would be prejudicial to the Corporation's interests in financing those who wanted loans.

Councillor P. Belton, T.D., said that there was one danger in advancing money liberally, and that was that it would undoubtedly have the effect of inflating costs.

The motion was carried, Councillor Kelly dissenting.

On the motion of Councillor J. J. Byrne, seconded by Councillor P. S. Doyle, T.D., a vote of sympathy was passed with the Lord Mayor (Alderman Byrne, T.D.), his wife, and family, on the death of his father-in-law, Mr. T. Heagney.

ROSCREA WEDDING.

MR. C. P. JONES AND MISS O. M. WALLACE.

The wedding of Mr. Charles Phibbs Jones, Royal Engineers, second son of Mr. Hume R. Jones, R.M., and Mrs. Jones, of Glenwillan, Portrush, and Ouida Margaret, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wallace, Knocknagreena, Roscrea, took place in St. Cronan's Church, Roscrea, yesterday.

The Service was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Jones (uncle of the bride), assisted by the rector of the parish, the Rev. A. H. Stanistreet. The Benediction was pronounced by the Lord Bishop of Killaloe.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a fitted gown of parchment satin, with long tight sleeves, a slight train and cowl neck. Her veil was of old Limerick lace, arranged over a wreath of white heather. She wore a single ornament, a Royal Engineers' brooch in diamonds and platinum, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a sheaf of Harrisi lilies.

There were three bridesmaids—Miss Barbara Cresswell, Miss Wallace and Miss Gwennie Webb—who wore azure blue frocks of stiffened chiffon with mittens and blue velvet sashes. Their headdresses were wreaths of blue velvet flowers.

Mr. R. W. Urquhart, Royal Engineers, acted as best man, and the groomsmen in the church were Dr. J. A. Wallace, Mr. J. C. Garwood, Mr. E. W. Jones and Mr. R. H. Wallace.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Knocknagreena by the bride's mother, who wore a brown patterned crepe-de-chine dress, with a brown three-quarter length coat and a brown straw hat. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of blue lace and georgette, with a crinoline hat of blue, trimmed with velvet.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for England, the latter wearing a grey coat and skirt with a green hat and silver fox fur.

Among the guests were:—Mr. and Mrs. Hume Jones, the Rev. W. B. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jones, Mr. E. W. Jones, Mr. R. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace, Miss M. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Webb and Mr. G. Webb, the Rev. F. J. Rainsford, Mr. R. B. Rainsford, the Rev. G. M. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. G. TWENTY YEARS AGO TO-DAY.

EVENTS THAT CHANGED WORLD HISTORY.

July 11, 1914.

The result of the inquiry into the Serajevo outrage will, it is announced, be made public as soon as the taking of evidence is concluded. Part of the evidence will be brought to the notice of the Serbian Government, which will be requested, through the proper diplomatic channel, to support an inquiry designed to discover and arrange for punishment of the guilty parties. It is hoped to ensure that in future the Pan-Serbian movement in Bosnia is not fostered by agitation from Serbia. While Serbia is expected officially to repudiate any connection with treasonable agitation in Bosnia, it is expected that the result of the inquiry will astonish many Serbs, who believe that they are being misled by the ambiguity of Serbian policy.

LONDON LETTER.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
Tuesday Night.

M. BARTHOU continued his conversations to-day before leaving for Paris. First he met Mr. Arthur Henderson, the President of the Disarmament Conference at the London office of the League of Nations. Later he resumed discussions with Sir John Simon, Mr. Anthony Eden and others at the Foreign Office, and then lunched with Mr. Stanley Baldwin and a party at 11 Downing street. It is generally accepted in Paris that M. Barthou will return empty-handed from London, though emphasis is laid upon the frank and friendly atmosphere of the conversations carried on here. Satisfaction is expressed that there seems to be no fear of British opposition, or even indifference, to the Locarno Treaty, but there is uneasiness as to how far London will go in approval of the Treaty, and what form this approval will take in practice. Paris seems to think that Great Britain will adopt an attitude of passive benevolence in regard to French affairs—particularly on the point of French foreign relations. M. Barthou returned to Paris this evening, but M. Pietri, the Minister of Marine, will remain in London for a few days longer to discuss naval matters.

Government Waste.

The Estimates Committee of the House of Commons has launched some sweeping criticisms in regard of the film library of the Empire Marketing Board. This library was handed over to the Post Office, and the committee takes the view that the policy of this department ought to be restricted to the development of definite Post Office services, and that the distribution of films of an educational and instructional character is not part of Post Office business. The committee also points out that excessive interventions by the Government in the flax industry have resulted in a loss of over a million and a half of public money. A scheme for the experimental growing and processing of flax was started in 1913, after two years' inquiries. It resulted in a loss of £28,000, and was followed, towards the end of the war, by intervention on a larger scale, which lost £1,500,000. For all this experience, a third scheme was launched in 1924, and is now being wound up with a loss of £70,000.

Herr Hitler's Holiday.

Herr Hitler, fatigued by recent events, which have caused his health to suffer severely, is to take a cruise next week on board the pocket battleship Deutschland. It is said that the olive branch speech made by Herr Hess last week was to have been delivered by Herr Hitler, who had prepared and written it, but his nerves were too shattered to allow him to speak. He has suffered from insomnia for some months; his average allowance of sleep is not more than two or three hours a day, and it is the hope of his medical advisers that the sea air and regular life on a warship will restore his nerves. At the same time, his political entourage believes that the holiday will relieve the tension in Germany, where matters have not yet settled down. Herr Papen, who is still Vice-Chancellor, has been summoned to the headquarters of the secret police and subjected to a close examination.

Fascists for Parliament.

I mentioned some time ago that Sir Oswald Mosley was welding his Fascist group into a political organisation, and the first step in this development will be a canvass of the Abbey Division of Westminster, which has returned a Conservative unopposed in the last two elections. The last occasion when an Independent candidate contested the seat was the by-election in March, 1924, when Mr. Winston Churchill secured 8,144 votes against 8,187 given to the official Conservative candidate. The Fascists intend to make a preliminary canvass of the whole country as soon as possible, with the idea of establishing polling district organisations in the constituencies. Mr. John Beckett, the former Labour member of Parliament, who once astonished the House of Commons by running away with the Mace, will take charge of this canvass and of the organisation generally.

Europe and Africa.

The proposal for the construction of a tunnel between Spain and Northern Africa has been revived, and important experiments in connection with the scheme will be carried out next month by the Spanish-Gibraltar Tunnel Commission, under the chairmanship of the Minister of Communications. For some time past investigations have been made by the Spanish naval authorities, whose report indicates that a tunnel can be safely constructed. It is estimated that the cost would be about £8,000,000, and France may accept responsibility for a considerable proportion of this amount. For military purposes it would be of great benefit to France to be able to transport troops from Morocco to the Continent by rail without necessity for trans-shipment, and for this reason work on the tunnel may be expedited.

The King's Accession.

It is said that fifty elephants, all gorgeously decorated, will be sent to London next May, when a number of Indian princes will come over to celebrate the silver jubilee of the King's accession. The fifty elephants, wearing valuable trappings belonging to the Maharajahs, will take part in a brilliant procession through the streets of London. The princes themselves will bring their finest jewels. The Gaekwar of Baroda, who will be among them, is to wear that famous diamond, the South of India Star, second only in importance to the Koh-i-Noor, and the Maharajah Sindhia of Gwalior will don his magnificent State robes and wear ropes of pearls fully thirty yards in length. In addition to the first-rank princes, thirty-five of the lesser potentates of India are expected to arrive in London to take part in the rejoicings.

Heat in London.

The great heat has naturally had its effect on clothing. The streets are gay with women wearing the lightest of dresses both in colour and material, while the men, still clinging in most cases to their "fancy" suits," mostly walk bareheaded. There are many young men, however, who wear grey flannel "slacks" and the short-sleeved sports shirt, the latter usually in very bright colours. The usual wear for boy children is a knitted bathing suit, while the little girls are mostly in thin muslins. The roads are dusty; the fountains have been stopped, and everybody is talking of the water shortage. This shortage, however, has not affected the Lido in Hyde Park, and to-day this was packed to capacity, with thousands waiting to take the place of those lucky enough to be inside the dressing-room lines, if not in the water; for sun-bathing appeared to be indulged in just as much as water-bathing.

PRIME MINISTER COMING TO BELFAST.

Mr Ramsay MacDonald, the Prime Minister, will leave Lossiemouth to-day at 9 o'clock for Worksop, and after attending the prize-giving ceremony at Worksop College will fly to Ireland in a private 'plane.

Miss Ishbel MacDonald will leave Lossiemouth to-morrow by road, joining her father at Greenock on the steamer which is to take them to Canada, and which he is boarding at Belfast.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL CHAIRMANSHIPS.

FIFTEEN FOR FIANNA FAIL.

STORMS OVER ELECTIONS OF COMMITTEES.

UNITED IRELAND REFUSALS OF NOMINATION.

THE Irish Free State County Councils, with the exception of four which are being administered by Commissioners, yesterday elected their chairmen, vice-chairmen and committees.

While the elections of the chairmen and vice-chairmen passed without incident, there were strong protests in many cases against majority parties' allocation of seats in the various committees.

Cavan was one of the few places in which at the outset agreement was reached, without apparently any difficulty, regarding the constitution of the committees. At Westmeath, on the other hand, the United Ireland representatives walked out in protest against the manner of the committee elections, and at Limerick members of the same party refused to accept the seats they were offered.

In a number of other counties the Fianna Fail representatives either refused committee seats or expressed the intention of resigning those to which they had been elected.

Fifteen of the twenty-three chairmanships went to Fianna Fail nominees; seven to United Ireland and one to an Independent.

The vice-chairmanships were distributed as follow:—Fianna Fail, 9; United Ireland, 5; Labour, 4; Independent (including I.R.A., Republican and Protestant Association), 5.

IRISH BOXER'S £3,000 PURSE.

APPEAL BY BOXING BOARD.

The dispute about the purse of £3,000 withheld from Jack Doyle after his fight with Petersen was before the Master of the Rolls, and Lords Justice Slesser and Romer in the Court of Appeal yesterday.

The British Boxing Board of Control appealed against a judgment of Mr. Justice Mackinnon that they were bound to pay the £3,000 to Doyle.

The fight was promoted by Jeff Dickson, and took place at the White City. Doyle was disqualified, and the British Boxing Board of Control withheld the money which, he said, they had agreed to pay him. Mr. Justice Mackinnon held that they were not entitled to do so, because no charge of deliberate fouling was made against Doyle and because the purse was withheld on the ground of disqualification under a new rule that had not been brought to Doyle's notice.

Judgment was entered for Doyle for £3,000.

Sergeant Sullivan, K.C. (for Doyle), said: "I shall refer to the rules and to the procedure necessary to carry an amendment. An amendment cannot be validly made without notice of it being sent, among others, to Doyle."

Sir Patrick Hastings said that he would contend that Doyle must be taken to know of the amendment to the rules. Doyle was suspended for six months. He had had £500 under the judgment and there was £2,500 in court. It would prove most disappointing to a number of young men in the boxing world if Doyle's point about infancy were upheld.

"If it is to be held," said Sir Patrick, "that the rules of the Board are not binding on these young men, they will not get licences and will not be able to box. Doyle would be very unpopular among his professional brethren. Some of these young men make fortunes before they are 21."

The case was adjourned.

HOME ARMY'S BEST SHOT.

SERGEANT WINS KING'S MEDAL.

Bisley was continued yesterday with the temperature attempting to break all records. Sergeant-Instructor T. Moore, Small Arms School Corps, won the King's Medal for the best shot of the Army at home. This was competed for by 150 marksmen selected to represent the Regular Army at home and 50 Territorials.

Moore totalled 180, the highest score recorded since the competition was reinstituted in 1923. Last week he won the Rifle Championship of the Regular Army at home, and yesterday's success was gained on his birthday.

The gold medal for the Territorial making the best score in the King's Medal was won by Captain A. Kirkwood, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, with 169. Captain Kirkwood also won the Rifle Championship of the Territorial Army for the best aggregate in the Queen's Mary's Prize competition and the King's Medal with 325.

Other results at the National Rifle Association's seventy-first meeting yesterday were:—

Kinnaird Competition—A tie between C.M.S. I. Abbott (Royal Marines), Leading Aircraftman Brett (R.A.F.), Gunner Layzell (Royal Marines) and Private McAtasney (Falkland Islands), each with 35.

B.S.A. Competition—The rifle won by Marine Purdy (Royal Marines), with 34.

The Edge Match Rifle Cup—Mr. H. P. Coates (English Eight), 73.

CONCESSIONS FOR BRITISH GOODS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

Generous concessions on a wide range of British goods were approved in the New Zealand House of Representatives to-night, when the members adopted the tariff resolutions, which were introduced by Mr. Coates, the Minister for Customs.

These concessions, in many cases, exceed the Ottawa requirements. In nearly all cases they maintain the existing tariff on foreign goods.

CONFERRING OF DEGREES.

AIR MINISTER'S WARNING.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Tuesday.

THE MARQUIS OF LONDONDERRY, Chancellor of Queen's University and Minister of Air, presided this afternoon at the summer graduation ceremony. Addressing the graduates, Lord Londonderry said that they should make sure that that day did not mean to them the severance of their ties with the University. She had given them much, and there was yet much that she might have to give. They, in their turn, might contribute something to add to her strength, to her dignity and to her reputation.

The candidates for degrees were then presented by the Deans of the several Faculties and Degrees conferred as follow:—

Doctor of Laws—General Sir Archibald Montgomery-Massingberd, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Doctor of Literature—Dr. Helen Waddell. Professor Robert A. Williams.

Doctor of Science—Professor George G. Henderson, Major-General Sir John W. D. Megaw.

Professor Todd, Dean of the Faculty of Law, presenting General Sir Archibald Montgomery-Massingberd for the Degree of Doctor of Law, said that Ulster was proud, and had reason to be proud, of her contribution to the British Army's roll of fame. Distinguished sons of an earlier day, Eldred Pottinger, John Nicholson, and the Lawrences imparted a lustre to the record of the North, which men of yesterday, like Sir George White and Sir Henry Wilson, did not suffer to wax dim. That day they sought to honour one who stood in this eminent succession, and had worthily maintained a great tradition.

CHIEF OF STAFF.

In his present capacity as chief of the Imperial General Staff there devolved upon him the supreme responsibility of advising His Majesty's Government in all matters affecting the military policy of the British Empire. He asked Lord Londonderry to present the degree of Doctor of Laws honoris causa on one whose forebears had been settled in Northern Ireland for more than 300 years, and who in his own day and generation had deserved well of his country.

Professor Semple, presenting Dr. Helen Waddell for the degree of Doctor of Literature, said that the University was honouring a distinguished graduate of its own Honours School of English Literature, and one who had since gained a well-merited name and fame as a mediæval scholar and as a woman of letters.

Professor Charlesworth, Dean of the Faculty of Science, presenting Sir John W. Dick Megaw, K.C.I.E., Major-General and Hon. Physician to His Majesty the King, said that in Sir John they welcomed one who was peculliarly their own, a member of a well-known County Antrim family, that included Mr. Justice Megaw, an honoured member of their Senate.

Professor Semple, presenting Professor Williams, said that they paid tribute primarily to his eminence in the field of modern language studies.

Professor Charlesworth, Dean of the Faculty of Science, presenting Professor George Gerald Henderson for the Degree of Doctor of Science, said that he was Regius Professor of Chemistry in the University of Glasgow, and a Fellow of the Royal Society.

A NEW DUBLIN HOSPITAL.

PLANS FOR ELM PARK.

On the fifty-acre estate at Elm Park, Merrion, which has just been purchased by the board of St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin, it is planned to build the largest and most modern general hospital in Ireland.

The project will be largely financed from the accumulated funds of the Hospitals' sweepstakes, and it is understood that the board are at present negotiating with the Hospitals' Commission on this subject.

Prominent Dublin architects have visited some of the most up-to-date hospitals on the Continent, and it is understood that the new St. Vincent's Hospital will incorporate ideas learned during the architects' tour.

When the new hospital is built at Merrion it will provide an out-patient department and, at a later date, nursing homes, organised on similar lines to those attached to the hospital in St. Stephen's Green, will be added. The present premises will then be sold.

THE HITLER COUP.

PRAISE FROM DR. GOEBBELS.

FOREIGN PRESS ATTACKED.

"SLOP PAILS OF LIES."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

"WITH admirable boldness, the leader crushed with lightning speed the revolt of a small clique of saboteurs and sickly and vicious people," declared Dr. Goebbels, the Minister of Propaganda, in a speech broadcast from all German stations this evening.

"But law and order were never disturbed by this action," he continued. "Daily life took its normal course. The German people, as though nothing had happened, went on their holidays, or continued their work without interruption. But the people in its entirety welcomed the action of the leader, which saved Germany and the whole world from catastrophes. A gigantic wave of confidence from the whole nation greeted Adolf Hitler's bold action. If anything in Germany has changed, it can be only the people, who since then have loved the leader and the political régime he represents with still greater ardour."

PRESS ATTACKED.

Declaring that the 30th of June passed off in Germany without friction and without any internal disturbance, Dr. Goebbels made a vigorous attack on the foreign Press.

"I call on you all as witnesses against several cases of lies, calumnies and distortions unexampled in journalism," he declared.

They might have expected, he continued, that the international Press, which was represented in Berlin by a number of well-paid representatives, would have obtained objective and unobjectionable reports of events from ear and eye witnesses, but with a few exceptions the international Press got into a "delirium of malicious provocation and hysterical abuse." Against this "slop pail of cowardly lies," which, according to Dr. Goebbels, was intended systematically to debase Germany and her leaders in the eyes of the whole world, he appealed for the assistance of the people.

"The German Government has been silent about all this," he declared. "We considered it to be beneath our dignity to begin a discussion with this kind of malicious and abusive journalism."

TOLD THE TRUTH.

The Government, he said, had informed the world of the events of June 30th. It had not hidden anything. It told the truth because it was convinced that the nation and the world would best understand the crushing of the revolt if they knew fully the background and the dangers which might have resulted from the revolt but for the intervention of the leader.

Thanking the German Press for the discipline it had shown, the speaker said that this proved that "the great educational work of National Socialism and its régime has not been without fruits." Referring in this connection to the legislation regulating journalism in Germany and the criticism on these matters in the foreign Press, he remarked:—"The foreign Press asserted that these measures amounted to the total suppression of the freedom of the Press and the liberty of opinion; that no frank word could be any longer spoken in Germany, and that the truth had been banned from the Press. But, at any rate, the Governments and peoples of other nations have benefited from this law; for we took care that what the Press wrote on foreign countries also in no way conflicted with the law. We did not allow statesmen of other nations to be insulted or to be brought into contempt in the German Press.

PRESERVING AUTHORITY.

"We shall call to account any journalist who attempts to disturb Germany's relations with the world. Every Minister of a foreign country will be treated with the same respect in Germany as German Ministers are treated, because we feel that a diminution of the authority, even of a foreign Government, would have the effect of a gradual decrease in the feeling for authority in one's own land."

"How did the foreign Press respond to this noble interpretation of journalism?" asked Dr. Goebbels. "A campaign of lies began which, in its malice, could be compared only to the atrocity campaign during the War against Germany."

"In the name of the German people, I protest with indignation and all my strength against this kind of journalism, and declare on behalf of the Government that the German Government is not willing to tolerate in the future foreign correspondents in Germany who in this manner stir up people against people, and conjure up an atmosphere which renders impossible honest and unprejudiced relations between nations. What they have done in Germany is the worst kind of gunman journalism."

GERMAN VICE-CHANCELLOR.

BEFORE SECRET POLICE.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

Herr von Papen, who is still nominally Vice-Chancellor, was summoned yesterday to the headquarters of the secret police in the Albrechtstrasse, and subjected to close examination, Reuter learns this morning. This morning Herr von Papen was at his home, outside which an armed black uniformed "S.S." man is on sentry duty.

The examination of the Vice-Chancellor, who was placed under virtual arrest during the clean up of alleged plotters against the present régime at the beginning of the month, is understood to have taken place late yesterday.

Several members of Herr von Papen's staff were arrested by the police and detained for some time during the "clean up," and one, Herr von Bose, was shot dead by S.S. men in his office.

Unless another postponement is decided on at the last minute, the list of those killed during the recent "purge" of the Storm Troop leaders may be made public to-morrow, it is understood.

In any case, it is stated that no details will be published until after Dr. Goebbel's broadcast address to-night.

PROPOSED CENTRAL HOSPITAL.

CORK, Tuesday.

The matter of the proposed Central Hospital for Cork City, which was before the Hospitals Commission on its recent visit, was discussed by the North Infirmary Committee to-day. Alderman Anthony said the Committee should bear in mind the fact that the present Government had its mind set on a new central hospital.

"They will carry it out," he said, "no matter what we say."

Mr. Hurley said that lack of co-operation between the various hospitals in Cork was deplorable.

It was decided to ask the Mercy Hospital and the South Infirmary to join with members of the North Infirmary in a conference on the matter.

Honours Even in Test Match.

SPECTATORS YAWN AT THE FINISH.

1st Test—Australia won.
2nd Test—England won.
3rd Test—Match drawn. (England 627 and 123 for no wicket, declared; Australia 491 and 66 for one.)

A BORED crowd saw a tame ending to the Test match at Manchester last night.

In spite of England's mighty score, Australia not only saved the follow-on, but prevented what at one time might have been a runaway victory for England. To achieve this they finished the match with a couple of hours stolid batting.

"Stop that stone-wall stuff," shouted one member of the weary crowd. Australia naturally refused to take this advice, and with the batsmen playing for time and a draw, spectators began to go home in their thousands an hour before stumps were drawn at six o'clock—30 mins. before the scheduled time. As a consequence, the ground was three-quarters empty when the players trooped off the field. The game had ended on a light note, with an over from Patsy Hendren, the Middlesex man, whose sole forte is batting.

There was no repetition of the wild scenes at Lord's, when thousands in the crowd rushed across the pitch and engulfed the players. This time spectators merely yawned. After the match Wyatt, the England captain, said: "I am sorry England were not able to force a win. Our bad fielding and dropped catches lost us the match. There is nothing else to say.

"The Australians did very well in spite of their troubles with illness in the team. We have every sympathy for them in that respect, and hope that their invalids will quickly recover."

STILL HOTTER IN DUBLIN.

BAROMETER FALLING SLOWLY.

It was yet another "coats off" day in Dublin yesterday, and the weather made a new record—the thermometer reaching 85 degrees, its highest this year.

During Monday night the temperature only fell to 58 degrees in the screen and 52 on the ground.

The barometer is still falling slowly, but the weather shows no signs of breaking. When it does thunder showers may be expected. The light sea breeze which was blowing yesterday will continue to-day, and there is likely to be some slight cloud formation during the afternoon.

SCHOOL WORK IN THE HEAT WAVE.

ACTION BY LORD MAYOR OF DUBLIN.

Owing to the excessive heat yesterday, a number of people called on the Lord Mayor of Dublin (Alderman A. Byrne, T.D.), and suggested that during the continuance of the heat wave the schools that have not already granted holidays to the teachers and children should close down at lunch hour every day. The Lord Mayor conveyed and recommended the suggestion to the Department of Education, who received it favourably, but said that it was a matter entirely for the managers, and if they made such a request it would be favourably considered.

SALMON DYING.

A number of salmon have been found dead in the lower reaches of the River Clodia. Trout are dying in large numbers in the streams.

Owing to the extraordinarily low level of the River Barrow at Bagenalstown large numbers of salmon are dying in the river of drought. Several fish were found near the town in an emaciated condition.

SUFFERING FROM SUNSTROKE.

The Rev. Dr. Fallon, Maynooth, who was holidaying in Aran, has been brought into Seamount Private Nursing Home, Galway, suffering from sunstroke.

GERMAN UNIVERSITY FIRE.

500-YEAR-OLD BUILDING BURNED DOWN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

FREIBURG-IM-BRIESGAY (BADEN), Tuesday.

A large part of the building of Frieburg University, one of the oldest and most famous in Germany, was completely destroyed by a disastrous fire to-day. The building was still ablaze this evening. The fire broke out in an attic at 1.30 this afternoon, and spread with lightning rapidity over the woodwork of the roof. Owing to the drought the fire brigades were practically reduced to the position of helpless onlookers. After twenty minutes the great cupola collapsed with a deafening roar, and later the heavy copper roof over the entrance crashed into the street below.

All the afternoon professors and students courageously forced their way along smoke-filled staircases and corridors to rescue the famous library, which contains over 300,000 books.

The flames quickly spread to the west and south wings of the building, where the beams of the roof collapsed. The beautiful assembly hall in the western part, which was decorated with fine mural paintings, is now a heap of smouldering ruins.

It is believed that the fire was caused by a short circuit in the moving picture room.

The university was founded in 1455, and has about 4,000 students

VICTORY MEETING IN NEWBRIDGE.

MR. NORTON AND U.I.P. POLICY.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEWBRIDGE, Tuesday.

Mr. W. Norton, T.D., at a victory meeting in Newbridge to-night, said that General O'Duffy had attributed his defeat not to his own foolish policy but to the want of loyalty on the part of his own supporters. The fact was that his army was discouraged and dispirited as the result of the general's bad tactics and vacillating policy. He had stated that the ranchers had voted for Fianna Fail, but that was untrue. That was unfair to the ranchers of Kildare.

The election, Mr. Norton said, had given Fianna Fail and Labour a definite majority in the country, as a whole, and in Co. Kildare the United Ireland Party were in a distinct minority on every public body. He hoped, he said, that General O'Duffy would have the grace to accept the people's verdict and let Mr. Thomas fight his own battles in the future.

THE SHIPPING SUBSIDY.

MR. RUNCIMAN'S STATEMENT.

OWNERS INVITED TO SUBMIT SCHEME.

PROMISE OF EARLY LEGISLATION.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.

WESTMINSTER, Tuesday.

IN the House of Commons to-day, Sir Stafford Cripps (Labour) opened a debate on Mr. Runciman's recent statement of the Government's shipping industry proposals, by moving that the House "views with concern the plight of the British mercantile marine, and is prepared to consider proposals for the improvement of shipping and shipbuilding."

Sir Stafford said that he quite agreed that it was essential to maintain the merchant service, of all kinds, whether liners, tramps, or coastwise shipping, because, as an island community, we were dependent upon them. It was plain that with our present economic system it was almost impossible to carry on these services unless something was done by the nation as a whole towards their survival and continuance. There were difficulties in the way of a subsidy, as it might form a precedent for other industries. He suggested as the real remedy the reorganisation on a co-operative, and not on a competitive, basis, of the whole merchant shipping of the world. It was plain that the policy of scrapping was not acceptable to the shipowners, and it was impossible, with their present information, to say whether that policy was a good one or not.

LIBERAL VIEW.

Sir Herbert Samuel (Liberal) pointed out that Sir Stafford Cripps's policy of nationalisation would mean subsidies at the highest point. The three principal causes of the present shipping situation were the shrinkage of world trade, the increase of foreign shipping by fifty per cent. and foreign subsidies. The way in which to increase international trade was to sweep away all restrictions on the trade that would employ our shipping. As to unfair foreign competition, due to subsidies, he agreed that something ought to be done. The right course was not to imitate foreign subsidies, but to attack them directly by consulting with India and the Dominions, and endeavouring to enlist the co-operation of ship-owning countries where there was no subsidy.

Sir H. Cayzer (Conservative) said that he had not met any shipowner who was in favour of the scrapping and building scheme.

Mr. David Kirkwood (Labour) welcomed the £2,000,000 subsidy, but said that he thought it was too small.

Colonel Ropner (Conservative) expressed disappointment with the Government's proposals.

MR. RUNCIMAN'S REPLY.

Mr. Runciman (President of the Board of Trade) said that the simple fact had to be realised that, if there were in the world ten more ships than the world trade could fill, there was bound to be a slump. If there were ten fewer ships than was required, there would be a boom. He proposed, in his dealings with foreign countries, to lay stress upon that fact. Other countries besides our own would like to see the scrapping of their surplus tonnage. The Government's programme was designed to remove our surplus tonnage, though shipowners would be put under no pressure to accept it. He was told that shipowners had not approved the scheme, but that left him entirely unmoved, because he knew of many shipowners who were in favour of it. Knowing the shipping industry as he did, he never expected that there would be one unified opinion. It was a matter for some regret that not a single sailing ship would benefit from the Government's scheme. Sailing ships were a relic of the past.

The Government's policy was to see that our mercantile marine was maintained at the highest possible efficiency, and they did not want to interfere with the specialists and experts. With regard to the coastal traffic the greatest rivalry came, not from foriegn vessels, but from the road and rail services. If they reopened that question, the coastal traffic, they might re-open the controversy between shipowners and the rail and the road, which would be a very dangerous thing to do.

If there was any serious invasion by the foreign ships, run under unfair conditions, the Government might have to take action, and he hoped he would not be accused of being too menacing. On at least two of the routes which linked up the Dominions with this country there were liners subsidised on such a scale that they could run at about three knots an hour more than was necessary in the ordinary way, and they could do it, not out of the profits from passenger fares or cargo freights, but out of a steady subsidy paid by the Government of the country whose flag they were flying.

It was undesirable that the links of Empire should be maintained by foreign shipping. On imperial grounds we could not see that danger without taking some steps to combat it. Foreign countries should be made to understand that, so far as links with the Empire were concerned, we were not going to submit to present conditions without making a great effort to equalise matters.

The percentage of imperial trade carried in British bottoms was still very large, and he did not want to see any diminution in that traffic. One reason why they had not communicated with foreign countries more rapidly on the subject of shipping was that last autumn they had some experience of what came from an international conference on the subject. As the result of the £2,000,000 subsidy, however, we were not now in the same helpless condition, and he hoped that there would be a change of attitude on the Continent.

The Government wanted the co-operation of the shipowners. He hoped to secure the co-operation of all shipowners, and that they would be able to produce schemes, watertight in themselves, which would be effective in impressing the outside world. In endeavouring to provide a solution of this problem, the Government would be prepared to proceed with the necessary legislation If, during the coming recess, a scheme satisfactory in all respects was produced by the tramp class, the necessary legislation to enable payments to be made would be one of the first tasks brought before Parliament at the conclusion of the recess. (Cheers.)

After further debate, the House agreed to the motion.

MR. DE VALERA'S SPEECHES.

LORD DANESFORT'S MOTION POSTPONED.

In the House of Lords last night a motion in Lord Danesfort's name calling attention to recent speeches of Mr. de Valera and to the status of loyalists in Southern Ireland was postponed until July 25.

AIRCRAFT IN THE NORTH.

PROPOSED DERRY SCHEME.

SAFEGUARD AGAINST RAIDS.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Tuesday.

IT is understood that the British Government is considering seriously a proposal to establish aircraft manufacturing works in Northern Ireland, in the vicinity of Londonderry.

The present system of concentrating all such works in the South of England—principally in the vicinity of London—where they would become an easy target to the enemy, exposes the industry to particular risks in the event of war, and this fact has been impressed upon the Government. It is felt that aircraft works in Northern Ireland would be almost immune from attack, as enemy craft in that case would have to cross two seas in order to attack, and could be intercepted by home defence squadrons before reaching Londonderry.

The Northern Government would give every encouragement to the project, which would provide additional employment in the North. Under recent legislation the Government has obtained power to provide free sites for industries that are new to Northern Ireland and do not compete with existing industries. As there is no aircraft factory in the North at present, a factory such as that suggested would be entitled to the benefit of a free site, and it is understood that this would be granted readily. Local authorities have power also to relieve new industries of rates for a certain period, and this option would, no doubt, be exercised in the case of a new aircraft factory.

Such a development would be particularly welcome to Londonderry, where employment for men has been somewhat limited since the closing of the Derry Shipyard after the Great War. Northern Ireland has plenty of skilled labour available for the establishment of aircraft and engineering works upon a large scale.

As the British Army still is stationed in Northern Ireland, with regiments at Derry, Belfast, Holywood and other centres, adequate protection could be afforded to any aircraft works that might be established. There is an Air Force aerodrome at Aldergrove, a new civil aerodrome is being established at Newtownards, and there is a possibility of one at Belfast Harbour. Londonderry has been recognised as one of the most suitable situations for an air base, and one has been established there this year. All these would help towards the establishment of aircraft works, and could provide the landing places for testing new aircraft.

LONDON-BELFAST SERVICE

A new air service from London to Glasgow and Belfast, with a stop at Liverpool airport, is announced to begin on Monday next. The service will be operated by Mr. Edward Hillman, and will have the latest type of passenger aeroplane, with a cruising speed of about 145 miles per hour. Last week the trial flight between London and Belfast and back was made in 6½ hours.

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE HOP SCHEME.

In a leading article to-day The Times observes:—The House of Commons is to discuss to-day the amendments to the hop marketing scheme, which passed the House of Lords last week in the face of opposition less pertinacious than might have been expected from the volume and the tone of criticisms before the debate. It is true that the hop-growers themselves have approved the amendments by a majority of about fifty to one, but others have suggested that this decisive verdict was naturally obtained from those who stood to gain a monopoly under the amended scheme. At first sight, indeed, Lord Astor, who has led the critics, had a manifestly strong case. Failing an unlikely return to the former volume of beer-drinking, the amendments will, undoubtedly, confer upon existing producers a monopoly of hop-growing, and this monopoly is unlikely to expire at the end of the five years to which the present amended scheme is limited. Such a monopoly would, undoubtedly, be dangerous if it were to be considered a precedent and were later conferred upon the producers of other commodities.

As regards Lord Astor's plea for the "dispossessed producers"—i.e., those who before the return of prosperity reduced or eliminated their planting of hops—it is, doubtless, true, as he says, that in some cases this action was taken upon the advice of those trying to save the industry from over-production, but it is at least probable that in many cases the action was taken to save losses upon an uneconomic crop. There remains the assertion that the amended scheme will increase the value of land under hops. Of course it will, but that is only an incentive to restore prosperity to other forms of cultivation.

IRISH IN THE CIVIC GUARD.

SPECIAL TERMS FOR NEW DIVISION.

The following statement was issued by the Government Information Bureau last evening:—

"From the date of the coming into operation of the scheme for the complete Gaelicisation of the new division of the Garda Siochana in West Galway, a special allowance will be made to Gardai of all ranks serving in this area under this scheme.

"The allowance in every case will be at the rate of 7½ per cent. of the member's pay for the time being.

"It will be payable to all Gardai retained in the new division or transferred to it, and is intended as a recognition of the special service which they will give not only in using nothing but Irish in their intercourse with the Irish-speaking public, but in mastering the technical difficulties of making Irish the official language of the force in the area."

NORTH WALL DISPUTE SETTLED.

MEN TO RESUME WORK THIS MORNING.

The carters and dockers who went out on strike at Dublin will return to work this morning.

At a mass meeting of the men yesterday, which lasted about two hours, they decided by a majority to return to work immediately on the understanding that the whole position would be reviewed.

This review, it is understood, will take place in London between the parties.

Clearance of goods which accumulated at the L.M.S. depôt will be expedited, and normal services will be established to-day.

The 1,500-ton U.S. destroyer Aylwin, the first of four to be built under the terms of the London Naval Treaty, was launched yesterday at Philadelphia. The Aylwin was built at a cost of four million dollars.

TO-DAY'S SENATE MEETING.

SOME IMPORTANT MATTERS.

CONSTITUENCIES AND ARMY BILL.

QUESTION OF HOLIDAY ADJOURNMENT.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

THE Senate will have the legislative stage all to itself in the present week. It will meet to-day to discuss an order paper which contains material for several days' sittings.

One of the first things for decision will be when the House will rise for the summer holidays. There appears to be a feeling of distinct aversion to the suggestion that the Senate should sit to deal with all the bills which the Dail may pass from its meeting next Wednesday until whatever date in August it may be able to get through all the bills that are required. That would mean that the Senate could not get up earlier than September. Senators are not disposed to agree to this. It is likely that the Senate will decide to rise about the 2nd August for the holidays and return in October.

This will not be altogether acceptable to the Government in view of the several measures which are urgently needed; but the Government, and not the Senate, must take responsibility for the delay in bringing forward public business, and for the fact that the Dail had to adjourn for want of business in the first fortnight of July.

IMPORTANT ITEMS.

To-day's business in the Senate will include several items of importance. It will be necessary for the House to decide as to its attitude on the Defence Forces (Temporary Provisions) Bill, the operation of which is limited to the 30th November next. The Dail declined to agree to this, and the next step will be the holding up of the measure unless some accommodation is reached.

Another matter of first-class importance will be the Committee stage of the Electoral (Revision of Constituencies) Bill. Upon this a completely new schedule, with a new definition of constituencies, will be proposed in opposition to the schedule in the bill. This schedule is much simpler than that passed by the Dail, and differs only in some small particulars from the schedule of the 1923 Act, which is in operation at present. It avoids the mutilation of territorial boundaries, against which so much was said in the debates in the Dail, and it seems not improbable that it will commend itself to the Senate. The Dail would probably refuse to accept it, and in that event there is every prospect of the bill being held up for the prescribed eighteen months.

MAY DELAY ELECTION.

Should this bill be held up it may operate to delay the next general election until after it has become law. The question again arises as to whether an election on an unrevised constituency schedule would be legal in view of Article 26 of the Constitution, which requires that the constituencies shall be revised once in every ten years. It is now over eleven years since the original schedule began to operate. If the present bill should be held up now the new schedule could not become law before at least twenty months had elapsed.

The Constitution (Amendment No. 23) Bill, which is designed to abolish university representation, is down for second reading. It is highly probable that this bill will be held up also.

Other business for to-day includes the Appropriation Bill (second stage) and the Finance Bill in Committee, upon both of which it is open to the Senate to have prolonged discussion and to make recommendations, but, being certified money bills, it is not open to the Senate to amend either.

M. BARTHOU'S VISIT.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Tuesday.

The results of M. Barthou's visit to London are summed up as follows by the Special Correspondent of the Havas Agency:—

1—All British objections to the Eastern Locarno Pact have been removed, and the Pact receives the approval of the British Cabinet.

2—The British Government will support the plan in the capitals concerned.

3—Great Britain will not oppose the entry of U.S.S.R. into the League.

4—Franco-British relations have been endowed with increased confidence.

"I am very pleased with the conversations I have had with Sir John Simon and his colleagues of the British Government," said M. Barthou just before he left London yesterday for Paris, after the conclusion of the friendly conversations between British and French Ministers in London.

"We have examined with the same good faith the questions of general interest which are common to us, and we have found that we are in agreement on general questions of the European situation."

The Foreign Office issued the following last evening:—

"Conversations between British and French naval experts were held at the Foreign Office to-day, and will be continued to-morrow."

James Johnston, aged five, while playing on the Forth and Clyde Canal bank at Bainsford, Falkirk, yesterday, slipped into the water and drifted to the deepest part of the canal. Helen Morrison, aged fourteen, who lives in a house facing the canal, observed the boy struggling in the water, dived in and, after swimming some distance, succeeded in rescuing the child.

ELECTING COUNTY COUNCIL CHAIRMEN.

U.I.P. MEMBERS WALK OUT.

WESTMEATH INCIDENTS.

REPUBLICAN CROSS WITH FIANNA FAIL.

From Our Correspondent.

MULLINGAR, Tuesday.

HAVING protested against the automatic party voting without any advertence to the names proposed for the various committees, the thirteen United Ireland members of the Westmeath County Council yesterday walked out of the meeting.

Mr. Flanagan said the idea of Fianna Fail and Labour was to shut out the thirteen U.I.P. councillors.

The secretary and some others suggested that the United Ireland members remain, and that the meeting be adjourned for 45 minutes, but the whole 13 walked out in silence.

Mr. Patrick Brett (F.F.) was elected chairman by 17 votes to 14 for Mr. W. Finerty (U.I.P.).

Mr. T. Maguire (Indept. Republican), chairman for the last six years, refused to let his name go forward, and refused to vote. He held the gallery spellbound by an earnest speech, chiefly devoted to an indictment of Fianna Fail's claim to stand as sincere Republicans.

Mr. Maguire said he had been branded as a Communist by political opponents. He denied that emphatically, but one thing he could never be branded as was a renegade, a turncoat or a traitor. Yes, here they had the political party who held sway and claimed that they were Republicans, turning him down in favour of one who in fourteen years had stood on every political platform that existed.

Mr. Kennedy, T.D., said he could give a complete answer to Mr. Maguire; but, as leader of the Fianna Fail Party there, he thought it not a suitable occasion.

Mr. H. Broderick (Labour) was elected vice-chairman by 18 votes to 14 for Mr. John Grenham (U.I.P.).

Board of Health — Messrs. Kennedy, Connaughton, Vaughan, Gavin, Brett, Broderick, Hayden, O'Connor, Shaw and McCormack were elected. (F.F. 6, Labour 2, U.I.P. 1, and Rep. 1.)

GALWAY.

CRITICISM OF FIANNA FAIL "CONCLAVE."

At Galway Mr. Eamonn Corbett (F.F.), outgoing chairman, was re-elected. Mr. W. J. Concannon (Ind. Republican), who also contested the chair, said that the attitude taken up by the Fianna Fail Party at their convention on Saturday was, in effect, an endeavour to deprive the four Republican candidates on the Council of their rights. It was an injustice for any party to meet in solemn conclave and set out who was to be chairman and vice-charman.

Mr. Corbett received 21 votes and Mr. Concannon 18. One of the surprises of the vote was that all the United Ireland members voted for the Republican candidate.

Replying to Mr. Concannon, after his election, Mr. Corbett said that he had never allowed politics to interfere with the business of the Council. Mr. Concannon had no monopoly of republicanism. Mr. Harry O'Toole (F.F.) was elected unopposed to the vice-chairmanship.

Mr. P. Lambert (U.I.P.) explained the reason his party were not putting forward a candidate for the chair was that they did not want politics on the Council.

MAYO.

U.I.P. REFUSE SEATS ON COMMITTEES.

Mayo County Council's meeting, with the secretary and many members in their shirt sleeves, lasted until after 6 o'clock, virtually every motion going to a division. The sole Independent voted with the Fianna Fail 19. Mr. Michael Kilroy, T.D. (F.F.), was elected Chairman by 20 votes to 17 for Mr. Sean T. Ruane (U.I.P.). Mr. Bernard Joyce (F.F.) was elected vice-chairman against Mr. John Corcoran (U.I.P.), the vote being the same.

The United Ireland Party refused to accept four seats offered on the Mental Hospital Committee, and four clergymen were reappointed, together with twelve Fianna Fail members. Six Fianna Fail members were appointed to the Board of Health; the U.I.P. members refused to group to select the remaining four.

For the Vocational Committee, the U.I.P. refused to make a proposition. None of them got representation on the Agricultural Committee, nor on the University Scholarships, Educational and Library Committees.

LIMERICK.

Mr. John McCormack (F.F.) was unanimously re-elected Chairman. For the Vice-Chairmanship, Mr. M. O'Donnell (F.F.) was elected by a casting vote of the Chairman. Mr. D. J. Madden (U.I.P.) and he each had 16 votes. Four Labour members abstained from voting.

During the electing of the various committees the U.I.P. members withdrew their names as a protest against not being given fair representation. Mr. Madden said that they represented almost fifty per cent. of the Council, and, were it not for the fact that they had been protected by statute they would not have got representation on the Board of Health.

The Mental Hospital Committee and the Vocational Committee were then constituted entirely of Fianna Fail and Labour.

CAVAN.

At Cavan County Council yesterday, Mr. Peter Soden, P.C. (U.I.P.), was elected Chairman by 17 votes to 15 for Mr. James O'Reilly (Indpt.), outgoing. Four Independents voted with the U.I.P. and 14 F.F. for Mr. O'Reilly. Mr. George Coffey (Indpt.) was elected Vice-Chairman, defeating Mr. E. McDonnell (F.F.) on a similar vote.

Mr. Soden said it would be his endeavour to keep politics out of the Council chamber, and he paid a high tribute to the work of the outgoing Chairman. By arrangement four from each of the political parties and two Independents were appointed on the Board of Health, with similar accommodation in regard to various committees.

SLIGO.

Mr. John Hennigan (U.I.P.) was unanimously elected to the chairmanship and Mr. H. O'Donnell (U.I.P.) to the vice-chairmanship. The following were elected to the Board of Health:—Alderman M. Nevin (F.F.), Messrs. Flanagan, Caffrey, Gilmartin, Gilligan, O'Donnell, P. J. Rogers, T.D.; M. Gallagher, J. Jinks (Mayor of Sligo), and W. Johnston (9 U.I.P.), Conway, Higgins, Hennigan, McGoldrick, Roddy, T.D. Only U.I.P. members were elected on the Mental Hospital Committee, County Committee of Agriculture, and Vocational Education Committee.

MINORITY PROTESTS AT MANY MEETINGS.

IN this page are the reports of yesterday's county council meetings, at which Chairmen, Vice-Chairmen and Committees were elected. (A summary of the results appears in Page 7, Columns 1 and 2.)

An unexpected development at two meetings was a clash between Fianna Fail and Republican representatives. In the majority of cases, however, the Independent Republicans voted with Fianna Fail and Labour in opposition to United Ireland.

There were protracted delays owing to the continuous votes taken during the elections of Committees. The Dublin County Council meeting lasted 7¼ hours, and the Monaghan meeting was still in session at the time our correspondent telegraphed his report.

Senator T. Toal was elected Chairman of the Monaghan Council for the thirty-first successive time, which must surely be a record.

LONG MONAGHAN MEETING.

CHAIRMAN'S 31st YEAR OF OFFICE.

From Our Correspondent.

MONAGHAN, Tuesday.

At the time of telegraphing (9 p.m.) the Monaghan County Council is still sitting electing committees. Every inch of the ground is being contested between the political parties.

Senator Thomas Toal (U.I.P.) was, for the thirty-first time, re-elected Chairman. He obtained 15 votes to 13 for Mr. James Johnston (F.F.). By the same vote Lieut.-Col. Madden (Protestant Association) was elected Vice-Chairman, his opponent also being Mr. Johnston.

There were many heated interchanges during the political speeches made during the meeting.

The following were elected on the Board of Health:—Lieut.-Col. Madden (P.A.), Messrs. Patrick Conlan (U.I.P.), Thomas McAree (U.I.P.), Peter McKenna (U.I.P.), James Johnston (F.F.), John McGahey (F.F.), William Foxgrave (P.A.), Patrick Lonergan (U.I.P.), Patrick Macklin (U.I.P.), and T. Carragher (Independent Republican).

The voting was on strict party lines, except for the last seat, when most of the U.I.P. members voted for the Independent Republican. The vote, 15 to 13, must have been taken some hundreds of times throughout the day.

CORK.

FIANNA FAIL WANT MORE BOARD SEATS.

Mr. W. J. Broderick, T.D. (U.I.P.), was unanimously elected Chairman, and, on a division, Mr. D. L. O'Gorman (U.I.P.) was elected Vice-Chairman by 37 votes to 27 for Mr. P. O'Donoghue (F.F.).

The Council had under consideration the appointment of the County Board of Health, consisting of ten members of the Council. It was suggested that party proportion should be 6 U.I.P. and 4 Fianna Fail. This was not agreed to, and on a vote 37 voted for a proposal to have seven U.I.P. members and three Fianna Fail of the Board. The voting against this proposal was 27.

Mr. J. M. O'Connor (U.I.P.) then nominated seven members of his party to act on the Board. Fianna Fail members consulted together, and, as a result, decided on abstention policy, and called upon the other side of the Council to nominate the remaining three members.

Eventually, on the Chairman's suggestion, the matter was adjourned until next Tuesday.

LOUTH.

Mr. James T. McGee (Indpt.), outgoing chairman, was re-elected by 19 votes to 12 for the only other nominee, Mr. Hugh Magee (F.F.). This is Mr. McGee's eleventh year as chairman. Mr. T. F. McGahon (Indpt.), outgoing vice-chairman, also was re-elected by 18 votes to 12 for Mr. Hugh Magee (F.F.).

Mr. McGee paid a tribute to the manner in which all parties had co-operated with him during his chairmanship in the past. He hoped that when they differed there, their enmity would be forgotten.

The following were elected to the Board of Health:—Mrs. Campbell (Indpt.), Messrs. T. F. McGahon (Indpt.), M. Campbell (Indpt.), J. Duffy (Indpt.), W. Woods Indpt.) and H Reilly (Indpt.), all outgoing; Mrs. Lentaigne (U.I.P.), Mrs. Butterly (Indpt.), T. J. McGuinness (Indpt.) and P. Flynn (F.F.).

KERRY.

Mr. Jeremiah McSweeney (F.F.), outgoing Chairman, and Mr. Thomas M. Fleming (F.F.) were unanimously elected Chairman and Vice-Chairman respectively. The Board of Health was constituted as follows:—Jeremiah Long (F.F.), Edward Leahy (F.F.), John Brosnan (F.F.), Michael Healy (F.F.), Arthur O'Neill (F.F.), Jeremiah Kennelly (F.F.), Kate McBreen (F.F.), James O'Regan (F.F.), P. J. O'Shea (U.I.P.) and Michael Leary (U.I.P.).

U.I.P. and Independent members were elected to the Killarney Mental Hospital Committee, but only Fianna Fail representatives to the Vocational Education and County Agricultural Committees.

LONGFORD.

Mr. John Belton (F.F.) was elected chairman and Mr. Sean F. Lynch (Indpt. Rep.) vice-chairman, both unanimously. There was no proposal by the United Ireland Party.

The following were elected on the Longford Board of Health:—Messrs. S. F. Lynch (Indpt. Rep.), R. Tuite, T. Carter, F. Walshe, M. Hearne, C. Lyons, P. Reynolds, B. Kiernan, M. Drum (all Fianna Fail) and P. Doris (U.I.P.) (outgoing chairman). Mr. Doris said he would retire from the Board.

Mullingar Mental Hospital representatives elected were:—Messrs. M. Brady (Indpt. Rep.), T. Carter, E. Brennan, M. Drum (F.F.) and R. Belton (U.I.P.). The Vocational and Agricultural Committees are, respectively, 6 F.F. and 2 U.I.P.; 14 F.F. and 6 U.I.P.

LEITRIM.

The Council unanimously elected Mr. Stephen Flynn, T.D. (F.F.) as chairman. Mr. Frank McGuinness (U.I.P.) withdrew his name when he was proposed for vice-chairman, and Mr. John Joe McGarry (I.R.A.) was elected unanimously.

Board of Health elections resulted in six Fianna Fail, one I.R.A., two Independents, and one United Ireland member being returned. In the various subsidiary committees Fianna Fail completely ousted the U.I.P. representatives.

"LORD CRAIGAVON REPRESENTED."

DONEGAL'S LIVELY MEETING.

LIFFORD, Tuesday.

At to-day's meeting of Donegal County Council Mr. Michael Oge McFadden, T.D. (U.I.P.) was re-elected chairman, for the tenth time, by 18 votes, as against 16 for Mr. Neal Blaney, T.D. (F.F.). Returning thanks, Mr. McFadden said the new Council would have to have regard to the taxable capacity of their people, who were at present passing through a very gruelling time.

Mr. E. Mahony (U.I.P.) was appointed vice-chairman and Mr. J. P. McIvor (U.I.P.) deputy vice-chairman.

The Fianna Fail Party challenged virtually every seat on the subsidiary committees, Mr. Blaney stating as one of the reasons that Fianna Fail had 65 per cent. of the people behind them.

Captain Scott—Nonsense.

Mr. Blaney—We have seen to-day the fair play given by the United Ireland Party and the so-called Independents.

Out of a total of sixteen seats three Fianna Fail Councillors were elected to the Mental Hospital Committee. All three signified their intention of resigning.

Mr. Gallen (Republican) said the small representation given to Fianna Fail on the committees was beginning as a farce, but it might end differently.

Mr. P. Lynch (F.F.), amid uproar, said the poor workers might well think of getting justice when there was no justice in that place. "You are only a pack of antediluvian fossils," he shouted.

All Fianna Fail members withdrew nominations from the Committee of Agriculture, which will consist of U.I.P. members and Independents.

When a vote was being taken Mr. Michael O'Donnell (F.F.) remarked: "Lord Craigavon is not present, but he is very well represented."

WEXFORD.

U.I.P. DEMAND MET BY MAJORITY GROUP.

Mr. D. Allen (F.F.), by 14 votes to 12 for Mr. M. Doyle (U.I.P.), was elected chairman. Alderman R. Corish, T.D., Mayor of Wexford (Labour), defeated Mr. T. McCarthy (U.I.P.) for the vice-chairmanship by the same voting

A deadlock arose on the appointment of fifteen members of the Council to act on the Committee of Management of the Enniscorthy Mental Hospital. The majority group (Fianna Fail and Labour), who total 15 against 13 U.I.P., had decided to select seven Fianna Fail, three Labour, and five U.I.P. The latter decided to take no part in the administration of the institution unless allotted six members. The majority finally agreed to eliminate one Fianna Fail nominee and to allot the U.I.P. their demand.

NORTH TIPPERARY.

Mr. Martin Ryan, T.D. (F.F.), was unanimously elected chairman. Mr. Thomas Maher (F.F.), outgoing chairman, declined to go forward for the chair, but was elected vice-chairman by 17 votes to 10 for Mr. Timothy Maher (U.I.P.). The three Independents voted Fianna Fail. The following were elected to the Board of Health:—Miss K. Mason, Messrs James Ryan, Thomas Maher, T. Sheehy, E. Hayes, W. Maloney, John Bourke, and J. B. O'Driscoll (all F.F.); W. Perkins (U.I.P.), and J. R. Stakelum (Independent).

CARLOW.

Mr. J. A. Kehoe (U.I.P.), former Chairman, was re-elected by 13 votes to 12 for Mr. Nicholas Carpenter (F.F.). Mr. John P. Nolan (U.I.P.) was re-elected Vice-Chairman, defeating Mr. Carpenter by 13 votes to 12.

Other elections resulted as follows:—Board of Health, 7 U.I.P. and 3 F.F.; Vocational Education Committee, 3 U.I.P. and 2 F.F.; Mental Hospital Committee, no Fianna Fail or Labour.

WICKLOW.

Mr. C. M. Byrne (F.F.), outgoing chairman, was re-elected by 17 votes to 10 for for Mr. J. J. Bourne (U.I.P.). Labour, Fianna Fail and Independent voted together. Unanimous tribute was paid to the past services of Mr. Byrne, who mentioned that he was the oldest councillor, and this was his seventh re-election. Mr. E. Byrne (Labour) was unanimously re-elected vice-chairman.

OFFALY.

Mr. Patrick Boland, T.D. (F.F.) was unanimously elected chairman. Mr. P. J. Egan (U.I.P.) was proposed, but declined to go forward. Mr. J. P. Bowles (F.F.) was unanimously elected vice-chairman.

CLARE.

Mr. Sean Brady (F.F.) was re-elected Chairman, and Mr. Thomas Shalloo (F.F.), Vice-Chairman.

The United Ireland Party's minority of eleven were given no representation on any of the Council's committees.

MEATH.

Mr. Thomas Condon (F.F.) was unanimously elected chairman, the U.I.P. declining to nominate any of their party. Mr. Patrick Fitzsimons (F.F.) was unanimously elected vice-chairman.

'PLANE CRASH AT COLERAINE.

OCCUPANTS' LUCKY ESCAPE.

When in the act of taking-off for Dublin at Coleraine yesterday, a Gipsy Moth aeroplane struck a high hedge, then crashed through another on the opposite side of an old roadway, and finally dropped into a field. The machine was wrecked, the carriage and engine being almost torn away, while the propellor was smashed like matchwood.

The occupants, Mr. R. Edelsten, London, pilot, and Peter Hogg, Oxford, passenger, escaped without injury, except that the latter received a slight cut on the lip. They had left Reading a few days ago on a tour of the Scottish Highlands, and arrived from Islay yesterday morning. Mr. Edelsten wished to call on his sister, Mrs. Tymon, Lodge road, Coleraine.

On seeing the machine crash spectators who had watched the take-off rushed to the spot, and were relieved on seeing the occupants crawl from the wreckage, little the worse for their experience.

LONG DUBLIN MEETING.

DISCUSSION ON FREEMASONRY.

DISSATISFACTION OF FIANNA FAIL.

FOR seven hours and a quarter yesterday the Dublin County Council was engaged in electing a Chairman, Vice-Chairman and members of various committees. There was a full attendance, and the voting throughout was on strictly party lines.

Mr. P. Belton, T.D., was elected Chairman and Mr. T. Morgan Good Vice-Chairman, each by twelve votes to ten, two non-party members—Messrs. R. W. Cullen and J. Rollins—not voting.

As the Fianna Fail members could not get their nominees elected to the Board of Health they refused to make any further nominations, and accused the majority of "packing" the various committees.

Mr. P. J. Fogarty (Fianna Fail) was defeated for the chairmanship, as was also Mr. A. W. Cullen. Mr. Fogarty was also defeated for the vice-chairmanship.

The majority vote was made up as follows: Messrs. P. Belton, T.D.; Blake, Corr, Cosgrave, Dowling, Dooge, Delaney, Ennis, McCabe, Richardson (Sandyford), Magrane, Good.

The minority was as follows:—Messrs. Brady, Carvill, Clare, Fitzgerald, Fogarty, Hardiman, Jacob, Mullins, Richardson (Skerries) and Tunney.

OUTGOING CHAIRMAN.

Mr. Belton suggested that a vote of thanks should be conveyed to their outgoing Chairman, Mr. J. J. Shiel, for the way in which he had carried on his work. Mr. Cullen, outgoing vice-chairman, proposed, and Mr. Dooge seconded, such a vote. This was supported by several members of the Council and passed unanimously.

Mr. Sheil, in returning thanks, said, as one who was not connected with party politics, he made a stand in the elections on the basis of the preservation of the old condition of things in connection with local government. The electors had definitely asserted that they did not agree with him, and he was now no longer a member of the Council.

Mr. Belton, in returning thanks for his election to the chair, regretted that he had to stand before the people with a political label. That situation was not the making of himself or his party. No County Council had greater problems to face. They had an overdraft of seventy or eighty thousand pounds, and there were £30,000 or £40,000 outstanding in rates. At the same time, they had ratepayers who were poorer than anyone during the famine years. Their local services required £250,000 annually. The arrears of rates could not be collected without the aid of the Sheriff, and could not be paid unless they dipped into the last bit of working capital of the agricultural community.

Mr. T. Mullins (F.F.) said that, as far as his party was concerned, they were definitely not going to adopt obstructionist tactics in the Council, but if the tactics of certain Councils in the past were practised by the majority of the Dublin County Council, then there would be opposition of the most uncompromising type.

Mr. Good, returning thanks, said they should all work together for the unity of Ireland and the finding of markets for their goods.

FREEMASONRY.

Mr. Fogarty said one Councillor on the other side had said that they should live and let live as regards Freemasons, but. as far as he was concerned, he would do all he could against Masons.

Mr. Carroll (F.F.) said he could not understand how the unity of Ireland could be brought about by the associates of Freemasons.

Mr. Dooge, as a Catholic and an Irishman, said—"We are not Freemasons because we are Catholics. The Church forbids us to be Masons, and that is why we are not. Many of us would like to be Freemasons." (Loud cries of "No, no," from all sides.)

Mr. Rollins said that, after seeing what was happening there, he thanked God he was an Independent.

The Chairman appealed to the members to omit any further reference to Freemasonry, as many good Republicans were also Freemasons.

The members of the Board of Health were elected as follows:—Messrs. Belton (U.I.P.), Blake (U.I.P.), Magrane (U.I.P.), Rollins (Ind.), J. Ennis (U.I.P.), J Dowling (U.I.P.), A. Cullen (Ind.).

Messrs. Fogarty and Clare (F.F.) were nominated, and defeated by 12 votes to 10 and 12 votes to 11 respectively.

Mr. Mullins (F.F.) said that his party would decline to make any further nominations.

Messrs. Brady and Richardson (F.F.) were proposed by Mr. Ennis, but refused to accept the nomination.

The meeting adjourned for fifteen minutes, and, on resuming, Mr. Mullins said that they disputed the right of the majority to dictate as to whom his party should nominate to the Board of Health. He again nominated Mr. Fogarty.

ADJOURNED AGAIN.

The Chairman suggested a further adjournment for five minutes, and the proceedings were suspended. On resuming, the Chairman announced that, in the Law Agent's opinion, they would have to go on with the election of the remaining three members by the Council as a whole. If the Fianna Fail members would not nominate anyone his party would have to nominate members so as to complete the Board. If accommodation could be come to afterwards he promised the opposition that three places would be provided by resignations. Messrs. T. Cosgrave, John Richardson (Sandyford) and J. P. Dooge were elected.

A committee of the whole House was appointed as the Finance and General Purposes Committee, and also as the Finance Sub-Committee.

Messrs. Fogarty, Ennis and Richardson were re-elected members of the Balrothery Board of Assistance, with the following from outside:—Messrs. H. M. Dardis, J. Monks (Skerries), A. O'Brien (Garristown), J. Canty (Balbriggan), B. Lawless (Swords), R. Power (Drinagh), and Miss P. Fullam (Balbriggan).

The other elections were:—

Three members of the Dublin Board of Assistance—Messrs. Cullen, T. Cummins and Blake.

Rathdown Board of Assistance—Messrs. T. H. Downey, J. Richardson (Sandyford), J. Corr, J. Marlay, T. Delaney, J. P. Dooge, J. P. McCabe, A. W. Cullen, W. Rollins, J. J. Clare, J. Hardiman, M. J. Brady, R. O'Connor, A. Murtagh, J. Cruise, E. McGrane, P. Mulvaney, Miss S. McGarry, and Mrs. Mulvey.

Lawless and S. Mooney.

Messrs. J. J. Clare and J. Tunney, Fianna Fail members, declined nomination.

LORD MAYOR OF CORK.

ALD. FRENCH RE-ELECTED.

ARGUMENT HOLDS UP MEETING.

From Our Correspondent.

CORK, Tuesday.

HEATED exchanges between members and, at times, scenes bordering on pandemonium, marked the election of the Lord Mayor of Cork at to-night's meeting of the Corporation. The outgoing Lord Mayor, Alderman S. French, was proposed and seconded by Alderman F. J. Daly, Blackrock, and Alderman J. Allen.

All went well until Mr. J. R. Connolly proposed Alderman R. S. Anthony, T.D., and at this stage Mr. Gamble and Mr. Connolly, who were sitting near each other, entered into a discussion which developed into a heated altercation, during the course of which Mr. Gamble half divested himself of his coat.

The meeting was held up while the two councillors conducted their personal argument. The intervention of the janitor failed to restore quiet, but Alderman W. Desmond, T.D., intervened and prevailed upon Mr. Gamble to resume his seat, the alderman himself then taking up a position between these two councillors.

Alderman Daly, in proposing Alderman French for the Mayoralty, said that he had recently represented the citizens of Cork in Rome, and had brought a message from the Holy See, and in this capacity had done great credit both to himself and the city.

Mr. J. R. Connolly, in proposing Alderman Anthony, said that since the municipality of Cork was originated there had never been an individual who had the same measure of popularity as Alderman Anthony had.

Alderman French was elected by fourteen votes to five.

The Lord Mayor's salary was fixed at £1,000 per annum.

BEET GROWERS MEET.

NEW ROAD BILL CONDEMNED.

HOPE FOR BETTER PRICES.

AT the annual general meeting of the Irish Beet-Growers' Association, Ltd., held in the Courthouse, Carlow, yesterday evening.

A resolution was passed unanimously stating that the new Road Transport Bill would handicap greatly the beet-growers in delivering their beet, and would increase their costs.

The annual report stated that the membership of the Association was now 7,299, and revenue from contributions increased during the year by £302 14s. 7d. The total number of check and control tests of the sugar analysis of samples made by the Association's representatives during the season was 4,089. The over-all tare percentage last season was the lowest yet, due to the fine weather last year. Strong representation had been made to the Government to increase this year's basic price for beet, but without avail. In refusing to amend the price the Government had acted unwisely.

The sugar company had refused to continue to pay the freight subsidy on beet when the freight exceeded 6s. a ton, but it was understood that they would give assistance this year by way of freight subsidy to the Cooley (Co. Louth) district. In addition to the basic price, the grower this year would get 1½ cwt. of molassed pulp for each ton of beet.

Arising out of the report, the Chairman said that there had been a great deal of criticism directed towards the Association because it was stated its members had accepted the rotten price of 30s. a ton for beet. They had not accepted that price, but they had not pressed for a higher price, because such action might ruin the whole industry. A central council would control the policy and finance of the Association next year.

Mr. Michael Pender (Leix) said that farmers could not possibly grow beet at the price of 30s. a ton. They all thought that they had been treated badly by the Belgians, but when the present Government took over office it was a case of "down tools."

TRANSPORT IN DONEGAL.

NEED FOR MORE SERVICES.

EVIDENCE BEFORE COMMISSION.

THE Donegal Transport Commission sat yesterday at the Board of Works offices, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, to take evidence in respect to proposals for improving transport facilities in County Donegal.

Mr. J. Ingram presided. Mr. P. P. O'Donoghue and Mr. A. Hassard, members of the committee, were also present. Mr. J. B. Stephens, General Manager of the Great Northern Railway, also attended.

Mr. Michael McNelis, of Ardara, County Donegal, giving evidence concerning the Donegal Deep Sea Pier project, said that goods purchased in Dublin had, to avoid duties in the six counties, to be sent from Dublin around by Sligo to Donegal, which involved prohibitive expenditure.

The witness recommended Inch Island or Newtowncunningham as the best distributing centres, which in the event of the border being removed would remain a useful port. Motor-boats could be used for the conveyance of goods to the different small ports on Lough Swilly. The goods could also be conveyed by motor transit to Inch railway station, from where they could be distributed over the railway lines of County Donegal.

TRANSHIPMENT.

A short line to connect the Donegal line with the Letterkenny line might be required to obviate the difficulties of the border. By means of Government grants the Donegal railways from Burnport or Toobin Junction to Carndonagh, and also to Burtonport, could be made self-sufficient or a system of tranship waggons could be arranged. He said that the present system of charges on the Donegal light railway system required alteration. For the largest American liners in a national harbour Killybegs had most of the facilities required.

A deep-sea port was absolutely necessary for Donegal. They wanted a cross-Channel and coastal service, as well as facilities for large overseas vessels. If the motor services were regular and convenient it would not be necessary to construct the railway he had referred to. In reply to the Chairman, Mr. McNelis said that his principal objection was of goods having to go into the six counties.

Alderman John Lynch, Mayor of Sligo, gave evidence on behalf of the Sligo Development Committee. He said that the committee thought that the most economic way to serve the interests of County Donegal would be to develop the port of Sligo and connect the Donegal light railways with the port, which was the most important on the north-west coast of Ireland. The deep sea water berths, constructed at a cost of over £20,000, were principally used for the accommodation of vessels for overseas. The port offered facilities of transport to every part of the country. Improvement of Sligo port would be the best way of helping Donegal.

Mr. J. O'Keeffe, representing the Limerick Steamship Company, said that the question of supplying a steamship service from Limerick to Donegal had been inquired into in 1922, 1925, and 1932, and, considering the circumstances, a round service, including Glasgow, could not be undertaken without a guarantee. The total quantity of traffic in and out of Donegal was not of sufficient dimensions, unless it could be concentrated at one of the Donegal ports. The present system that was being adopted in regard to transport was fairly adequate. A steamship service from Dublin, Cork, Limerick, and to Donegal ports would not pay. The transport facilities in Donegal were economically adequate. They could, of course, be improved by more railways and the establishment of regular motor services. As long as the Glasgow service was used he saw no hope of a new steamship service paying its way.

The Commission adjourned.

DUBLIN GIRL KILLED.

DRAGGED UNDER TRAIN.

A JURY at Jervis Street Hospital yesterday, who, with Dr. D. MacErlean, barrister-at-law, City Coroner, inquired into the death of Lucy Keating (16), 8 Dominick street, Dublin, who died as the result of injuries received when she fell between the carriages of a train at Portmarnock Railway Station last Sunday night, returned a verdict of death from shock and haemhorrage.

The driver, fireman and guard were exonerated from blame, but the jury stated that the railway company was negligent in not providing sufficient accommodation at the station for the number of people present.

Mr. W. Gordon Bradley appeared for the G.N.R. Company and Mr. H. Good for the next-of-kin.

Mr. P. McKenna, house surgeon, described the girl's injuries, and said that death was due to shock and haemmorhage.

Patrick Flood, 9 Corporation street, Dublin, said that when the train came into the station there was a general rush for it. He was told that there was a person under the train. He got the train stopped, and crawled under a carriage where he saw a woman lying. She was conscious and spoke to him. There were about 200 people on the platform, which he considered overcrowded, and the station was badly lighted by oil lamps.

John Buckley, 85 Lower Dorset street, and Charles Doyle, 17 Irwin street, corroborated.

Edward Douglas, engine driver, 38 Seville place, Dublin, stated that after he had been given the signal to start he discovered that the communication cord had been pulled in the third carriage from the engine. Having released the brake, he proceeded to Amiens street Station, where he first heard of the accident.

Richard Thompson, fireman, Malahide, corroborated.

Allen Carson, engineer, Sutton, said that Portmarnock Station, he considered, would accommodate 1,800 people.

EMPTY CARRIAGES.

Thomas J. Johnson, traffic supervisor, Donabate, said that if the people had not rushed on the train no accident could have occurred. Four compartments were practically empty when the train left.

Michael Brennan, 92 Lourdes road, Cork street, said that there were about 800 people on the platform. The crowd surged forward against the carriages, and he was forced down between the carriage and the platform. The girl was forced over his head and fell down between the carriages.

Christopher Clifford, 11 Upper Buckingham street, who was a passenger on the train, said that he saw the sleeve of the girl's dress being caught in the door of one of the carriages. She was dragged along and pulled under the train.

The jury returned a verdict as stated above, and associated themselves with the Civic Guards, Mr. Bradley and the Coroner in an expression of sympathy with the relatives of the dead girl.

EXHIBITION OF FLOWER AND GARDEN PICTURES.

At the Metropolitan School of Art, in Kildare street, Dublin, is being held an exhibition of flower and garden pictures, which is to continue until Saturday next. Mr. Crampton Walker has been responsible for its organisation, and he has been able to collect an extremely interesting selection of pictures.

It is the first "one theme" exhibition that has been held in Dublin for a good many years, and it looks as if it is going to meet with success. The hanging of the pictures themselves has been planned with great care. Usually the walls of an exhibition of this type present the appearance of a patchwork quilt. The eye is continually being drawn from the picture one is looking at to a canvas beside it, which has been treated in a quite different fashion, and whose colour does not harmonise with that of its neighbours. Under these conditions it is usually impossible to form an opinion about any of the canvasses. Mr. Crampton Walker has avoided this fault. He has grouped the pictures in such a way that each blends with the other, so that it is possible to examine each canvas without distraction.

The remarkable number of pictures exhibited speaks well for the enthusiasm of Dublin artists. Among the most striking of them are Miss May Guinness's "Peonies" and "Autumn Flowers."

On altogether different lines is Mr. Dermod O'Brien's "On the Mantlepiece." There is a cool clearness about this that gives the impression of a bowl of flowers, far better than the fussy splashes of colour that go to make up the usual flower picture.

Mr. Crampton Walker himself has a large number of canvasses on view of an unvarying excellance. Should the public respond as it ought to this exhibition, it may mean a new era in Irish art. The presence of no less than 435 "one theme" pictures argues a revival of enthusiasm in artistic circles.

"I have taken Kruschen Salts each morning without fail for several years. I used to suffer from pains in the back, also from rheumatism and from slight swellings on finger joints and wrist bones. I have, through the regular use of Kruschen Salts, been absolutely free from the above troubles. I never have occasion to take any other medicine. My age is 65 and I enjoy most of the active pleasures, Golf, Motoring, Walking, Swimming, as if I were 20 years younger. I shall continue to use it with confidence. I owe much to Kruschen Salts."

J.D., Barnes, London, S.W.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your liver and kidneys to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system. Kruschen works directly upon your bloodstream too, invigorating it so that it floods every fibre of you with tingling energy. Tasteless in Tea.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE. The large bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS (lasts three months) still costs only 1/9—Do not pay more.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

HARINERO DECLINES.

Fox Scores a Narrow Victory on Alcazar.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

SALISBURY, Tuesday Night.

AN interesting problem in veterinary science—or should it be equine psychology?—arose here this afternoon, and that is—Can a heat wave affect the mentality of a horse?

The question comes by reason of the remarkable behaviour of Mr. William Barnett's colt, Harinero, who was being given his first race since he dead-heated in the Irish Derby a fortnight ago.

His number had gone in the frame for the Norman Court Stakes, and the colt, who had been brought from Whatcombe by road to-day, was taken from his box to be saddled under the trees in the paddock. H. Wragg had been engaged to ride him, as Ray was at Nottingham.

Immediately the saddle was put on him and the girth drawn, Harinero began to kick and plunge and nothing could budge him. Then the lad managed to get the saddle off, and immediately Harinero got up and was calm. They walked him round for a few minutes, took him to a corner, and put the saddle on him again. Immediately he felt the pressure of the girth he went through exactly the same performance as before. He went down, and stayed down until the saddle was again taken off. After this was done he got up as before.

The permission of the Stewards was then asked for his withdrawal from the race, and when this was given his number was taken out of the frame.

I should add that in the ordinary way Harinero is one of the most even-tempered of horses and has never shown any sign of such waywardness. I cannot recall ever having seen a similar incident on a racecourse before, and the curious thing was that Harinero was perfectly cool and had not turned a hair when he was taken out of the box.

Won by a Head.

Some wily people who envisaged the possibility of Harinero being withdrawn dashed to the rails and were able to get 9 to 4 about Alcazar, who started at 6 to 4, and won by a head from Adept. The latter is a well-bred three-year-old, owned by Lord Astor, by Gainsborough out of the good mare, Pennycomequick. He had made his first appearance at Ascot and had run fairly well, so that, with his big pull in the weights, he was slightly a better favourite than Alcazar.

He went off in front of the other three runners, but when they had gone half a mile Caldbeck headed him. Gordon Richards, who rode him, took the lead again in the straight, but two furlongs from home he was challenged by Alcazar, who speedily went ahead of him, and was a length to the good when they came to the stands. The other got within a head of him just on the post, but I think Fox knew before that that he had the race well in hand.

Alcazar has been a little disappointing in one or two of his races since he won the Penrhyn Cup, and I have an idea that Childs has waited too long with him. This distance was a mile and six furlongs, and Fox was more adventurous on him here and did not leave him with a lot of ground to make up as Childs has done.

The colt, who belongs to the American, Mr. William Woodward, and is by Achtoi out of the American mare, Priscilla Carter, was bred at Captain Arthur Boyd-Rochfort's stud at Mullingar. He is shaping like one who will make up into a fine stayer.

Although this race produced only four runners, and two others only three each, the rest of the events averaged up, and there were fifty-three runners for the six races—a great improvement on the proceedings at Nottingham yesterday.

For instance, sixteen two-year-olds were saddled for the Salisbury Maiden Plate, which was won by Mrs. Lionel Corbett's Cosmobelle, a filly by Sir Cosmo, trained by Captain Kirk.

There was a favourite from Fred. Darling's stable called Reveille, but Beckhampton favourites in two-year-old events this season have been doing anything but well, and Reveille did not finish in the first six. It is true that he was bunched in, but this was because he had not been able to take a place earlier.

At half-way Cosmobelle had taken a clear lead, and she went on to win readily by four lengths and five lengths from Claydon and Lodge Park, the latter of whom started at the excellent price of 100 to 8 and landed the place money for which she was backed. The winner is fast and will improve, for she is a really sprinting sort.

Mr. Ronald Strutt, a stepson of Lord Rosebery and a subaltern in the Coldstream Guards, had his first ride in public under rules here twelve months ago, and his first winner on the flat this afternoon. In the meantime, he has won the National Hunt Steeplechase on Crown Prince for Peter Thrale's stable.

He won the Amateurs' Welter on Bunkawai, beating Mr. Edward Lambton on the hot favourite, Fragrance, by two lengths, with Prince Aly Khan third a short head away, on No Earthly.

A French Horse.

The Prince managed to ride a winner later in the last race of the afternoon. This was a French horse called Pegomas by Zionist, who only came to Frank Butters from France a week ago, and of whom his trainer spoke disparagingly before the race. Prince Aly went off in front, and though he may have been headed by Silver Point (who was known as Franz Hals when Count John McCormack owned him) the latter immediately began to swerve all over the course. The other runner, King's Courtier, could not raise a gallop, and Prince Aly passed the post looking round and patting his horse's neck, thoroughly pleased with life. He is selling all his horses in training at Newmarket next week.

That good son of Bulger, The Divot, whom Mr. Eric Stedall has trained so well, put up one of his best performances in the Wilton Handicap when he came from behind with 9st. 4lb. and won very decisively by three parts of a length and half a length from Volcanius and Artistic.

The Selling Race won by Rocket from two other runners needs no comment.

Selections

The Bibury Cup is to be run for here to-morrow, and once again we shall have that great exponent of the art of galloping on roads, the American horse, ON POST, who last won the Newbury Cup. He is only a few pounds worse in with Herodotus, whom he beat out of sight at Newbury, and should beat him and win to-morrow.

The Hurstbourne Stakes may be won by BEN MARSHALL, the danger being Smoke Screen; while ABBOT'S LAST may take the Pembroke Maiden Stakes.

GALTEE MORE.

BIBURY CUP.

Feldspar Gets the Vote for Pembroke Stakes.

MR. H. CRUM-EWING, practically a newcomer to the Turf, has done exceptionally well this year with Caymanas, who won the Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot, and Herodotus. The latter, who scored an easy victory in the Salisbury Cup six weeks ago, is engaged in the Bibury Cup, over the same course and distance, to-day, and there is no denying his fine chance of supplementing recent successes. Naturally enough, Herodotus has gone up in the scale since his last appearance on this course, but, if he can reproduce the form, he should again account for On Post, who was only fifth, and is now 3lb. worse off. The latter's treatment is due to his two victories since.

Mr. J. V. Rank is fortunate enough to have Foxbridge and Solatium in the race. I understand that he will rely on the former, who has been kept well on the move since Ascot. In the Newbury Summer Cup he ran On Post to half a length, and now has a pull of 2lb.

Captain Wills's horses, which are trained at Kingsclere by Fred Butters, are running into form, and for that reason it may be as well to bear in mind that Chorist is well treated. Fred Darling runs Estate Duty in preference to Manner, and there can be no doubt that Mr. J. Dewar's recent purchase has been given a nice chance at the weights. Recalling his Windsor running, however, I fancy he will be all out to stay the trip.

Norman Herald has just missed a place in his last three races. He usually runs well, without, however, producing the much-needed dash in the final phases, which makes all the difference between winning and losing. I much prefer Apron Boy, who is reported to be fitter now than when unplaced to Flange at Ascot. On an earlier effort at Bath he is extremely well treated with Black Tulip, having a pull of 4lb. for a neck beating. It is a very open race, but I choose from Herodotus and and slightly prefer the latter.

Fred Darling had no luck on the first day, but should credit him with the Hurstbourne Stakes. He was a good fourth to Gynerium at Newmarket and has done well since.

Both Abbot's Last and Feldspar have been prominent recently and it is difficult to choose between them in the Pembroke Stakes.

FELDSPAR

receives 7lb. and the pull may enable him to win.

R. J. Colling, the Newmarket trainer, is making a raid on the Pontefract meeting. He has sent five horses to run to-day, and I think he will win with Grey Lass (3 o'clock race) and Leicester Lane (3.30 race). The Yorkshire Handicap may be won by Ailsa Craig.

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY.

We shall have a dozen runners at Pontefract. Willowmead has been a consistent performer and will run well for the Fern Hill Plate. Mrs. Sinkins put up a good performance when running behind Bellicose at Wolverhampton, and as the latter beat Gloriation colt at Bath that form reads good for who has my vote.

MRS. SINKINS (next best),

Grey Lass will be seen out for the Speculation Selling Handicap, and should win.

LEICESTER LANE

is set a hard task to concede 22lb. to Sou'-Wester for the Pontefract Welter Handicap, but being the more genuine animal I make him the choice.

Unis and

CUT THE PACK FILLY

are in good trim for the De Lacy Selling Plate, and I prefer the chance of the latter.

QUY*

showed by his easy successes here last Thursday that he is in good form, and he should add to that success by winning the Yorkshire Handicap.

BRIDGE LAW

should beat Birdcage Walk in the Castle Maiden Plate.

At Salisbury my fancies are:—2.30, St. Oswald; 4.0, Love's Legacy.

ALWAYS anxious to cater for the interests of their patrons, the Phœnix Park executive have arranged for another evening meeting. To-night's racing will start at 6.30, and, with 25 minute intervals, will conclude at 8.35. Considering the state of the going and the difficulties trainers are encountering with their charges at present, the declared runners are very satisfactory.

Especially is this the case with the Arnott Plate, the valuable two years old race, for which twelve runners are announced. Parting Glass here has an opportunity to atone for her narrow defeat by Balah at Baldoyle. The danger to her will probably be Newtown Ford, who will be the sole representative of P. Behan's stable. Selections:—

Kimmage Plate—Anna's Pride.
Kingstown Plate—Golden Toff.
Kingsbridge Plate—Ormond Quay.
Arnott Plate—Parting Glass.
Kilcock Plate—Lebanon.
Killiney Plate—Vici.

CRICKET.

FOLLOW-ON SAVED.

Australia Force a Draw in Third Test Match.

AUSTRALIA scored sufficient runs yesterday to escape the necessity of following their innings, and when shortly before half-past twelve a four by O'Reilly carried their total to 478 the real interest in the game vanished immediately. Cricket, of course, went on to more or less keep the attention of a company of about 8,000, but the match petered out quietly into a draw, so that honours still remain even at one win each.

This match, in which over 1,300 runs were scored for a ridiculously small number of wickets, went to show that tip-top bowling and impeccable fielding are absolutely necessary on modern pitches if a Test match is to be completed even within four days, unless rain produces abnormal conditions.

WICKET LASTS WELL.

The wicket at Old Trafford lasted wonderfully, and, except for the enormous footholds dug by the bowlers and one worn patch at the Stretford end, it was almost good enough at the end to have started another match on it. Whether this state of affairs is for the good of cricket need not here be discussed. The great fact remains that Australia, fighting an uphill battle from the time on Saturday afternoon that Bradman and Chipperfield left the field sick men, came through the struggle with distinction and no loss of prestige which a total of 627 against them might have suggested.

They batted hard on Monday with the danger of having to follow on, and a possibility thereby of ultimate defeat, always before them. Yesterday morning they still needed 55 to escape the follow-on danger, and they succeeded in getting them, but not until their last two men were together.

A QUIET ENDING.

As a matter of fact, there should never have been any question of the follow-on being saved, but two sharp chances in the slips were missed, Chipperfield and O'Reilly both being let off. England thus had to go in again with a lead of 126, and Walters and Sutcliffe had useful practice against Australia's bowlers. They were not separated, and when Wyatt declared Australia found themselves with the impossible task of getting 260 runs in less than two hours.

If this was beyond their powers, it could be said with equal force that England was not in the least degree likely to get their opponents out on such a wicket, even though Chipperfield, having been taken to hospital, would not be available for batting. The closing stages, therefore, lacked thrills and interest, and was nothing like so exciting as at Nottingham.

COSTLY MISSES.

When the game was continued Allen and Clark bowled, not altogether a wise arrangement of the attack, but, off Allen, Chipperfield, when eight, was missed in the slips from a left-handed chance to Hendren. Runs came, if not freely, at least easily, but O'Reilly, who batted with confidence and perhaps a little fortune, was missed when twelve. Hammond, in the slips, knocked up the ball, but he and Hendren got mixed up in a scramble to gather it, and it dropped to the ground.

At 454 Chipperfield, who had been in a hundred minutes, injudiciously tried a big leg hit. He did not get hold of the ball properly, and Walters, running from short-leg, made an awkward catch look easy. The partnership added a valuable 35 runs in 75 minutes.

With Wall in, the follow-on was saved at twenty-five minutes past twelve, and then twenty minutes later a brilliant pick-up and throw-in by Keeton, fielding substitute for Leyland, ended the innings. Wall turned a ball to behind square leg, and Keeton, running in from long leg, picked it up and, throwing hard, hit the one stump visible to him, with Wall far out of his ground.

CLARK OUT OF LUCK.

Australia's total of 491 occupied them ten hours and ten minutes. O'Reilly batted two hours and five minutes, and yesterday England occupied an hour and three-quarters in getting down the last two wickets.

Verity came out with the best analysis and bowled very well to earn it. Clark did not enjoy any luck, but might have had a good match if the catches off his bowling had been held. Allen never looked really dangerous, and Wyatt scarcely used Hammond judiciously.

BIG STAND FOR CAMBRIDGE.

If Oxford made the Cambridge bowling look poor on Monday, the Light Blues treated their opponents' attack with even less respect yesterday, despite the fact that they faced a total of 415. Above everything else stood out a splendid opening partnership between A. W. Allen and G. W. Parker, who, in three hours, scored 205 together before Parker lost his wicket, when both men attempted a foolish single from a stroke by Allen to Chalk at mid-off. Thus, Allen has figured in two notable opening stands at Lords for three years. He and N. S. Hotchkin put on 208 for Eton against Harrow, which is a record. Yesterday's big stand did not beat the 'Varsity record, which is credited to K. J. Key and W. Rashleigh, who, in 1886, made 243 together in Oxford's second innings.

Allen and Parker drove and cut especially well, while Parker, the smaller of the pair, hooked short deliveries well. While Parker hit eleven 4's, Allen claimed ten.

The Cambridge batsmen did little when once the opening pair had been dismissed. Pelham helped Grimshaw to add 48 for the ninth wicket, and then, with 44 runs separating the sides, there began an exciting struggle for the lead. Even King, the last man, revealed himself as no mean exponent in the art of batting, one cover drive being worthy of the greatest batsman in the land. Eventually the innings closed for 400.

BOWLING.

MECREDY CUP SEMI-FINALS.

Two of the most keenly contested games during the present season were played in the semi-final round of the Mecredy Cup, in which Railway Union and St. James's Gate qualified for the final.

RAILWAY UNION (F. Lynch) ... 25
BLACKROCK (S. Gilthorpe) ... 22

Blackrock led 3-0 at the start. Railway Union then got in and the score was 15-3 in their favour before Blackrock got another shot. Gilthorpe's rink improved and pegged back their opponents until they were within 3 shots of Lynch's total. Gilthorpe banned the last two ends in his endeavour to carry the jack, and finally had to acknowledge defeat by 3 shots.

ST. JAMES'S GATE (S. Nolan) ... 23
ST. JAMES'S GATE (H. Salisbury) ... 21

In this game, played at Imperial Tobacco Green, Crumlin, Salisbury established an early lead, which he held for the major portion of the game. Nolan's rink then put in a remarkably strong finish to make the score 21-all at the 20th end. In the last head Salisbury was lying two shots when Nolan, with his last wood, carried the jack to give him victory by 2 shots.

BOYD CUP (Second Round)—J. Humphreys and J. Brown (Clontarf) 28, R. Craig and S. Huggard (Leinster) 13.

Success for French Colt.

Prince Aly Khan won the Dunbridge Welter Plate at Salisbury yesterday on his own colt Pegomas. The horse only came to England a few days ago from France, but news of his merits had preceded him, and although at one time in the betting he was the outsider of the party at 10 to 1, he was backed down to 5 to 2. He won easily by five lengths.

ANGLING.

WATERVILLE, CO. KERRY.

The weather last week was very fine, and oppressive heat made angling very trying, so the conditions prevailing had an adverse effect on results, which, on the whole, were poor. A good number of angling visitors are here, and a good rainfall is badly needed to improve conditions all round.

LAWN TENNIS.

VICTORY FOR ENGLAND.

Visitors Finish Strongly at Fitzwilliam.

BY winning four of the five matches played yesterday at Fitzwilliam, England beat Ireland by 7 matches to 4. It was again a most interesting day's tennis, and the result was in doubt right to the end. T. G. McVeagh gave Ireland the lead by beating H. G. N. Cooper, but England equalised by taking the women's doubles, and then went ahead when R. J. Ritchie beat E. A. McGuire. Both the remaining matches, a men's and a mixed doubles, were long-drawn-out affairs, but England won both and gained a good victory after an exciting contest.

Considering the fact that England sent over a decidedly useful team, Ireland did extremely well, and very little might have turned the whole contest in their favour. McVeagh was our outstanding player and played superbly in both his matches. His volleying was really brilliant against Cooper, who, despite the fact that he possessed the better ground stroke equipment, simply could not pass his opponent at the net. When passing shots failed in the first set he tried lobs, but they met with even more summary treatment, and, except when he won the first two games of the second set, Cooper was outplayed. If McVeagh stayed at the back of the court, he retrieved almost everything, and he hardly made a mistake when he came to the net.

MISS STOKER'S GOOD PLAY.

A comfortable victory in the women's doubles brought England level. Neither Miss Yorke nor Miss Hardwick rose to any great heights, but they were a pair, whereas their opponents were not, though Miss Stoker, individually, was the best of the four. Miss Harman, however, was the weak link. She could not keep the ball sufficiently low over the net to keep her drives in court, and she did not show sufficient anticipation at the net. She lobbed well at times, but this was not sufficient against volleyers of the class of the English girls. Both on return of service and placing of volleys, Miss Stoker was outstanding, but too much work was thrown on her.

The second men's single proved the turning point. It was a rather dull display by, on the one hand, a man who is out of form at present, and, on the other, a man who has played no serious singles this season. Both threw away winning positions, but Ritchie lasted a gruelling contest just the better. Both hit weak and brilliant shots in succession, but Ritchie's ability to get to the net decided the issue, as McGuire could get little sting into his shots near the end.

THE MIXED DOUBLES.

McVeagh was again in great form, with Miss Harman, in the mixed, but the latter, though better than in her earlier match, did not give her partner quite enough support to beat a strong combination in Cooper and Miss Hardwick. McVeagh's brilliant low volleying and smashing brought them the second set, Miss Harman raising her game at critical moments, and they held their own to 3-all in the third, but Cooper took command then, and, by clever placements of volleys, enabled his side to take the next three games for the match.

Rogers and Ryan proved a surprisingly effective combination against Hare and Meredith, and this match was touch and go all through. The English pair had the surer touch on the mid-court volley, and were more consistent servers, but Ryan drove beautifully, and kept a very cool head all through. We have the promise of a very good player in the Limerick man. Rogers was severe overhead, but he was too often caught just inside the baseline with both opponents at the net. Service was held to 6 all, and then Hare lost his, but Rogers, unfortunately, followed suit, and Ireland had lost a great chance. The next break occurred on Ryan's in the 20th game, and that gave England the set. The English pair gained an early break-through in the second set, and they held on to it to win an interesting match. Results:—

IRISH CHAMPIONSHIPS.

With all the overseas stars in action at Fitzwilliam yesterday, there was a splendid day's play in the Irish championships, and it seems certain that we are to have the most brilliant meeting for many years past. There were no surprise results, but several of the young Irishmen and women put up fine fights against powerful opposition. A. E. Fannin, in particular, did well against the New Zealand champion, C. E. Malfroy, who will take a lot of stopping, as he has every shot in the game. W. J. Breese, the American, dropped a set in both his matches, while two of the visitors, Clynton Reed, of Australia, and Sperling, of Denmark, had a long and interesting tussle, which the former, who did more of the attacking, just won.

Miss Hartigan had some trouble in disposing of Miss Bradbury, who retrieved extremely well; while Miss Myerscough was steady against Mrs. Hopman, the other Australian. Miss McOstrich, on the other hand, had less difficulty than anticipated against Miss Furney. A notable win was that of D. D. O'Sullivan and J. B. Ganly over Sperling and Fannin in the men's doubles. YACHTING.

COQUETTE WINS LADIES' RACE.

A ladies' race for Water Wags was sailed last evening, and won in clever style by Coquette. The wind was very light from E.S.E., and the port course was given. There were six starters at 6.50, the order through the line being—Shindilla, Margaret, Coquette, Barbara, Mollie and Blue Bird. They went away on a beat, and Margaret led at the first mark from Coquette and Shindilla. At the end of the round Margaret was still leading, with Coquette, Shindilla, Mollie, Blue Bird and Barbara next in order. Margaret was still in front at the close of the second round, with Shindilla now second, but before the close of the beat Coquette was leader. The finish was:—

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

NEW SCRUMMAGE RULES.

Meeting in London yesterday the International Board considered several suggested alterations in the laws of the game. Among those agreed to were two concerning the scrummage.

Law 15, Section G, now provides that the ball is not fairly in a scrummage "until it has passed one foot of a front row player of each team," instead of both feet as formerly.

Section K of the same law now reads: "No foot of the first three feet of the front row forwards of each team, on the side on which the ball is being put in, shall be raised or advanced beyond the line of feet of the front row forwards until the ball has passed that foot. Other feet may be raised or advanced as soon as the ball is fairly in the scrummage."

No further major alterations in the laws of the game will be made before March, 1937.

Mr. R. G. Warren (Ireland) presided over the meeting, the other members being W. T. Pearce, Admiral P. Royds, M. F. Waters and J. Baxter (England), J. Jarrett and Dr. R. Jones (Wales), and H. Thrift (Ireland), the hon. secretary.

WATER POLO.

LEINSTER'S TEAM TO PLAY ULSTER.

L. O'BRIEN SCORES FIVE TIMES IN THE TRIAL.

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

THE Leinster Branch Selection Committee (Messrs. E. W. Proud, T. H. Corrigan, N. M. Purcell, and H. F. Brennan), after the Trial Match at Blackrock Baths last night, nominated the following to represent the Province against Ulster at Blackrock Baths on Saturday:—

Goal—K. O'Grady (Clontarf).

Full-backs—H. A. Daniels (Dublin University), J. P. Wallace (Pembroke).

Half-back—M. O'Mahony (Clontarf).

Forwards—C. Fagan (Sandycove) (captain), L. O'Brien (Sandycove), H. P. Dockrell (Dublin University).

Reserves—Goal, W. J. McCormick (Sandycove); back, J. S. Brady (Clontarf), B. G. Kearon (Dublin University); forward, F. Dowds (Dublin).

COMMENT ON THE TEAM.

The standard of Leinster Water-Polo is not as high as one would wish, and, as Leinster has always supplied the bulk of the players on the national teams in games in the open, the outlook for the match against England at Bangor on the 28th instant (for which the Leinster-Ulster match will be a trial) is not too bright. The range of selection at the disposal of the selectors is much more limited than in previous years, and the nominations have, on the whole, followed the lines generally expected.

R. Daniels, Dublin University, is the only newcomer to interprovincial honours. He was on last year's junior Trinity team, and has come on apace in senior ranks. The second youngest member of the team, he, with the youngest, Percy Dockrell, promises to attain the international standard. A like remark applies to O'Mahony, the young Clontarf half-back. Except for this trio, none of the younger section of players even approach the standard of the older hands. Cecil Fagan, the captain, should normally operate at back; but he is so much better a forward than most of the others that he is played in the van. O'Brien, like Fagan, selects himself on current form; and Wallace's ability as a full-back is well known. O'Grady has been Ireland's goalkeeper for the past couple of seasons. He is easily the best man we have for the position in Leinster.

Leinster ought to win, but not so decisively as in the days when O'Connor, Purcell, Beckett, and Judd, and their like, were available. The Ulster team, on paper, does not strike one as strong enough to interrupt the Leinster sequence of victories at Blackrock since 1900.

THE TRIAL MATCH.

The original intention to play Probables v. Possibles did not apply to the first half, when the Probable forwards operated in front of the Possible defenders. They did so well that when the Probable formation was reverted to in the second half they were two goals in arrear.

O'Grady saved three times in succession before Dockrell beat him for the opening score. Daniels and O'Mahony were very prominent in defence, the former marking O'Brien efficiently. Fagan made an opening for Dowds, who drew a back, and left O'Brien unmarked, the latter scoring from the pass. With a Blue forward out for moving, Kearon scored with a fine shot off the upright. O'Mahony came through in possession, and from his pass Boyle scored smartly.

With the forwards changed Blues had most of the game in the second half. O'Brien scored four times in succession. O'Grady was not idle, but the Blue defenders generally had the White forwards mastered.

Blues—K. O'Grady; J. S. Brady, H. A. Daniels; M. O'Mahony; C. Fagan (captain), L. O'Brien, and H. P. Dockrell.

Whites—W. J. McCormick; B. G. Kearon, F. Murphy, F. Dowds; J. H. Morton, C. A. Boyle, and M. D. Fletcher.

Referee—Mr. K. C. McCullough.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

WINTER-FLOWERING CARNATIONS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says :—

The bulk of the winter-flowering Carnations struck last spring will now be ready for shifting into their flowering pots, which are usually six or seven inch, according to the size of the plants; but over-potting should be avoided, as early-flowering plants, if somewhat cramped for root-room, are more readily fed with manure. Firm potting is necessary, as the roots, although fine, like some resistance, and the plants are helped earlier into bloom by being potted firmly. The compost for this potting should be two parts good loam and one part well-decayed leaf-mould and sand in equal proportions. After potting, the plants should be kept fairly close under glass, and shaded from scorching sun until well established. They may then be plunged in ash-beds in frames, so that the soil in the pots is maintained in an equable condition, and that lights may be placed over them in the event of a spell of wet weather during their stay in the open. A close watch for green-fly must be observed, and the usual remedy employed on the appearance of this pest.

LOOKING AHEAD.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says :—

It may seem rather soon to look ahead towards next year's breeding season, but in poultry-keeping, as well as in many other industries, it is the man—or woman—who plans for future developments, while attending to the work in hands, who is the most likely to succeed. The poultry-keeper can now start to select the birds for next season's breeding, as otherwise many suitable for this purpose might be disposed of if the selection is not started in good time.

It is considered best to mate hens in their second and third year with a cockerel ten or twelve months old. Some breeders think that this produces more cockerels than pullets, and when the pullets are mated with an older cock the number of pullets is supposed to predominate. If adults of the second season are mated these should certainly produce stronger chickens than any other. It is not wise to mate pullets and cockerels, as their progeny is unlikely to be vigorous, although there are sometimes exceptions to the general rule.

A woman given to Romantic sentiment.

An imaginative, sensitive, impressionable character, fond of music and the screen; with ability above the average if she cared to develop it, much obstinacy and pride, a strong artistic sense, a host of vague, ambitious dreams of the future, and unpractical views on life and love. Capable enough if placed on her mettle, but unwilling to face realities and lives in a world of her own.

The above is a Delineation of a reader's character from her handwriting. See others in the Weekly Irish Times
